

Wheat-Coffee Exchange To Help Both Brazil And United States

MAY DEVELOP GRAIN MARKET IN S. AMERICA

Hoover Says Unlimited Amount of Wheat May Be Sold to China

Washington—(AP)—Back to the barter and trade practices of an ancient era, two governments have contracted to dispose of some of their agricultural surpluses that have been stultifying commerce.

Through the action of its farm board, the United States government yesterday swapped 25,000,000 bushels of wheat held by the board's grain stabilization corporation, to the Brazilian government for 1,050,000 bags of coffee.

The barter was based on the current market prices of those commodities, or about 50 cents a bushel for the wheat and 53 cents for a pound of coffee. None of the coffee is to be disposed of until the fall of 1932, and then in monthly allotments of 65,000 bags to avert unfavorable effect to the coffee trade. A bag averages 132 pounds.

The agreement was signed at the Brazilian embassy by Ambassador de Lima, George S. Miller, president of the stabilization corporation, having previously affixed his signature. Negotiations had been under way for several months, as both countries had hoped that through the disposal of a portion of their surplus commodities, prices to their respective growers might be improved.

The announcement was made almost simultaneously with that by President Hoover in which he said the amount of wheat that might be sold by the board to the Chinese government had increased if it might purchase on long term credit 15,000,000 or the 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, held by the stabilization corporation in an effort to uphold prices of the grain.

Although the farm board previously had authorized the disposal of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat in foreign markets, the Brazilian trade was the first of its kind. Chairman Stone pointed out that Brazil, normally imports little wheat from the United States but that this transaction would tend to further develop a North American grain market at that South American country.

For many years the Brazilian government has sought to aid its principal agricultural crop by purchasing coffee for stabilization purposes. It went so far once to dump surplus coffee in the Atlantic ocean and later to place a tax on over-production. The farm board expressed belief the move by the two governments would be beneficial to both countries.

Under the terms of the Brazilian-United States agreement, the former is to turn over to the Brazilian Terminal company of New York, an additional 225,000 bags of coffee for grading, handling and storing the coffee without expense to the stabilization corporation. On the other hand, the corporation is to lay the wheat down at Atlantic seaports for export to the Brazilian government to be used for stabilization purposes.

The Brazilian coffee is stored at regulatory warehouses in San Paulo. That country has provided the United States market with 65 to 70 per cent of its annual demand for years, and last year 50 per cent to consumers in this country 1,725,859,297 pounds of coffee valued at $129,813,638. Last year 2,037,000 bushels of American wheat were sold to Brazil consumers.

General Weather
Fair weather prevails over practically all of the central states, the far west and the New England states. However, a tendency toward unsettled weather exists over the northern plains states and the mountain region because low pressure over that entire area and the adjoining Canadian provinces. Slight amounts of rainfall have occurred in connection with this disturbance and continued high temperatures prevailed over that region yesterday, reaching 90 degrees as far north as Williston, N. D. There is some likelihood of showers and thunderstorms over the extreme north central states and over the extreme upper lakes but in the western portion mostly cloudy and quite warm weather are expected to continue tonight and Sunday.

Lone Hiker, On Way Around World, Pauses In Appleton

A bonnie scotch hat on his head, a 65-pound medal-covered pack on his back and his dog "Jock" at his heels, John McMarold, Edinburgh, Scotland, completed a little hike of about 46,000 miles when he reached Appleton yesterday on his walking trip around the world. He started from Edinburgh 10 years ago, in January, 1921, and plans on walking for 10 years more.

Walking all the way of his journey through 66 countries, McMarold has worn out 200 pairs of shoes and his dog, which also wears little black shoes when his paws get weary, is on his eightieth pair. Jock is a scotch terrier that has been with McMarold for the last five years on his trip. The pair have been in the United States for a year and a half, coming from South America and the tropics. They will go into Canada from here by way of Minneapolis and Duluth.

Census Bureau Mapping U.S. Metropolitan Areas

Washington—(AP)—The 95 nuclei of this country's population, the "metropolitan areas" formed by the census bureau and chambers of commerce, will be completed next week. Eighty-four already have been announced by local chambers of commerce. The remaining eleven will be sent speedily from Washington for such announcement. Census Director Stewart today said.

Concentrating all areas about large cities with a population density of 150 persons per square mile, the "metropolitan areas" map has amalgamated some hitherto rival cities, and has compelled them to share hypenated honors.

For instance, New York—northern New Jersey becomes one vast metropolitan area, and, alphabetically, Oakland-San Francisco area comes into being.

"Our purpose is to picture the concentrated population, and not to include farm area interspersed with villages," explained C. E. Batschelt, census geographer. "We have segregated all population centers of 100,000 or more, having as a nucleus a city of 50,000 or more."

The 150 persons per square mile rule makes such areas self-limiting. As soon as the population falls, the city ends. Where areas of such density overlap, they have to be considered all one area.

"If two cities of more than 100,000 population are included, the area takes the name of both, hypenated and listed alphabetically."

"If a very large city thus takes in much smaller cities, the area takes the name of the large city." Los Angeles, Philadelphia, and Detroit he named as three cities so outstanding as to give their names to the entire area about them, though Pontiac, Mich., made some demur about being lumped with Detroit.

Oakland, Calif., also objected to being merged with San Francisco, but when it was pointed out she would be ranked as co-equal, being able to claim on her side as much or a little more San Francisco bay metropolitan area than her sister city, all was serene again beside the Golden Gate.

A Norfolk - Portsmouth - Newport News tentative grouping gave rise to another argument which probably will be settled amicably. Newport News, not desiring to be overshadowed by Norfolk, argued it was logical for all to be called "the Hampton Roads district." But the census geographer sadly shook his head.

Almost all the hypenated cities, he said, could be broadly explained in terms of some water-way or bay, but he added this country doesn't know its geography well enough to be anything but befuddled by such designations.

The complete list of hypenated metropolitan areas he gave as follows: Albany-Schenectady-Troy, Buffalo-Niagara, N. Y.; Providence-Fall River-New Bedford, Mass.; Kansas City, Kas.-Kansas City, Mo.; Lowell-Lawrence, Mass.; Omaha, Neb.-Council Bluffs, Iowa; Springfield-Holyoke, Mass.; Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.; New York-Northern New Jersey; Oakland-San Francisco; Scranton-Wilkesbarre; Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton, Pa.; Racine-Kenosha, Wis., and probably Norfolk-Portsmouth-Newport News, Va.

TRIES TO ESTABLISH PATERNITY OF CHILD

Chicago—(AP)—Capt. Christian attached to the United States diplomatic service at Ottawa, Canada, will arrive Monday to press his demand for proof of the paternity of a daughter born three years ago to his helress-wife, Mrs. Virginia Harrison Cross, his attorney, Robert Cantwell, Jr., announced.

Cantwell told Judge Davis yesterday his client wanted a divorce decree, granted a year ago, stricken off so that he could begin new action.

Gross wants paternity established so that, if the child is his, she can be included as beneficiary of an $800,000 trust fund created for his other two children.

GIFFORD AND HOOVER BUSY ON AID PLANS

Fifty Appointees Express Willingness to Assist in Activities

Washington—(AP)—Pleased with the response to his unemployment relief plan, President Hoover today was prepared to work out its preliminary details with Walter S. Gifford, newly appointed director of the administration's activities in that field.

The place selected for conferences between the two was the president's Rapidin fishing camp in Virginia. The chief executive and Gifford, who is president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, expected to reach there before lunch time today.

The personnel for carrying out the president's idea that relief should be furnished by local communities, counties and state, in addition to Gifford, included Fred C. Croxton, his assistant, and 60 members of an advisory committee.

Of 60 prominent men and women asked to serve with Gifford, 59 accepted the invitation yesterday, 2 declined on account of illness and 6 had not been heard from. Mr. Hoover expects to add to the list, probably after the weekend conferences. Several sections of the country not now represented will have members before the committee personnel is completed.

Responses to his invitation to serve with Gifford were described by President Hoover as being "splendid."

Work Under Way
Many communications from public officials and voluntary organizations are being received, he said, indicating much reorganization and planning now in progress in preparation for relief work for the fall and winter.

"There is a very evident widespread resolution to meet the situation again," he said. "I cannot speak too highly of the actual results obtained by the multitude of committees and public authorities over last winter."

Mr. Hoover said that in his years of experience in dealing with relief work he had found the best index to results was in the state of public health. With this mind, he added, he has asked Surgeon General Cummings to give him reports on the public health for last winter.

The surgeon general reported the general mortality, the infant mortality, and the sickness in the country was less in the winter of 1931 than in the winters of full employment of 1928 and 1929.

"The public health," Mr. Hoover added, "has apparently never been better than it has been over the past six months. It is a most creditable showing of the effort which the country made last winter and one for which the voluntary organizations and local officials are entitled to a very great deal of credit."

AIR DERBYISTS TO START FLIGHT SUNDAY

Cleveland, Ohio—(AP)—Air derbyists groomed their planes for the last time at Santa Monica, Calif., today in preparation for the start tomorrow of the 2,400 mile transcontinental sweepstakes derby to Cleveland.

Tomorrow night the flight of 65 planes will come down at Calexico, Calif. They will arrive at Cleveland airport Aug. 30 for the National Air races. Prizes total $25,000 in the derby.

Entries in the Thompson trophy race, speed classic, had also been announced today.

Most spectacular figures of the race, and favorites to win the 15,000 prize money and the silver trophy, are Major James H. Doolittle and Lee Shoenhair.

Other entrants include Ben O. Howard, St. Louis air mail pilot who will fly a plane he built himself; Lowell Bayles and Robert L. Hall of Springfield, Mass.; Walter J. Hunter, Robertson, Mo.; Harold S. Johnson, Chicago; Lou Relfern, aviation editor of Liberty magazine; J. R. Wedell, New Orleans; S. J. Wittman, Bryon, Wis., and a "dark horse."

"Doesn't Remember" Shooting a Senator

"I don't know. I don't remember." That's what pretty Ruth Jayne Cranmer answered to accusations that she had shot State Senator Roy T. Yates of New Jersey during an argument in a New York apartment. Here she is shown as she was arraigned in New York's West Side Court, and—here she is seen as she emerged from police headquarters, smiling and stubbornly silent. She was smartly dressed in a red silk suit, a brown felt hat and brown shoes. Formally charged with felonious assault, she was confined in Harlem prison pending further investigation of the shooting.

MINNESOTA POLICE FIND STOLEN CAR

Sheriff John Lappen received word this morning from Winona, Minn., that police there were holding a man named McVey whom they had apprehended with a car whose ownership they had traced to Donald Mathewson, Hortonville. The car, a Ford coach, was stolen from the Otis garage at Hortonville on May 5. Sheriff Lappen said he expected to go to Minnesota today to bring McVey back to Appleton to face charges.

OPPOSE OIL MERGER WITH SINCLAIR CO.

Bartlesville, Okla.—(AP)—The Bartlesville Examiner says stockholders here in the Prairie Oil and Gas Co. and the Prairie Pipeline company, opposing any merger with the Sinclair interests, have sent to John D. The stockholders contend the proposed stock trade basis is "unwise and unjust" to them.

PAIR GETS $3 IN HOLDUP AT LITTLE CHUTE

Young Men Flee Toward Kaukauna on Highway 41 After Robbery

Two young men held up and robbed the Metz restaurant at Little Chute about 1:30 this morning, escaping with about $3 in cash. They missed a small amount of change in a second cash register, which they failed to notice. The pair entered the store about 15 minutes before the robbery and bought some candy bars and left. When they returned, one of them stood outside the door while the second, armed with a revolver, accosted Mrs. E. Clark, Kaukauna, who was behind the counter.

He ordered her to open the cash register, and then commanded her to put up her hands. In the meantime, Mrs. Anna Metz, the proprietor, saw the holdup, and went into another room. The robber outside the door warned his companion to "make it snappy because someone just slipped out a rear door."

The robber inside then went over to two couples sitting in a booth and ordered one of the girls to hand him her ring. She took the ring off, however, and put it inside her shoe. The robber then turned and scooped the cash from the register.

J. M. VAN ROOY OPENS JOB PRINTING PLANT

A new commercial job printing plant, known as the J. M. Rooy Printing Co. has been opened in Hotel Appleton by J. M. Rooy, Appleton. The entrance to the new shop is on Washington. Mr. Van Rooy has been connected with the Appleton Press for 15 years previous. All of the equipment in the plant is new.

behind the candy counter. After taking the cash he ran outside and jumped into a small touring car, which sped toward Kaukauna on Highway 41.

A short time before the holdup Mrs. Metz had removed most of the cash from the registers.

The pair was described as being about 25 years of age. The one who entered the restaurant was tall, had a dark complexion and a protruding nose. No description of the second man was available.

Sheriff John Lappen was notified immediately after the robbery, and he in turn notified Kaukauna police. Although the roads were scouted the officers were unable to find a trace of the robbers.

The flyers are due in Cleveland the following Sunday, second day of the National Air Races.

DESCRIPTION OF PROPOSED FOREST "LAB" ANNOUNCED

Building to Cost $700,000 and Will Be Largest of Kind in World

Madison—(AP)—A description of the largest forest products laboratory in the world, to be constructed here at a cost of more than $700,000, was announced by the U. S. department of agriculture today.

The contract for the building went to C. B. Fritz and Co., Madison, and is the principal award under a $900,000 Congressional appropriation to provide a laboratory with adequate quarters and equipment. It will be U-shaped, about 275 feet in length and over-all breadth.

"Stepped-back" construction, vertical lines and large areas of glass constitute the emphatic point of the design. Holabird and Root, Chicago, are the architects. In its six stories with a total floor space of 175,000 square feet the building will have modern technical and scientific facilities for testing and investigating wood and other forest products.

A group of dry kiln will be installed and a cold storage chamber will keep green logs and timber in unchanged condition for experimental work. The laboratory will have machines to test timbers and frame work up to a breaking load of 1,000,000 pounds which will be served by cranes accommodating pieces and panels as large as 30 feet high and 100 feet long.

A pulp and paper research laboratory will occupy six floors at one end of the building. The department of agriculture points to an ultra violet ray chamber as one of the unusual features of the building. Here wood can be sterilized for mycological studies and paints and other materials exposed for test. An X-ray room will be used for the examination of the minute structure of wood.

The building will have a large timber preservation laboratory, a wood fermentation unit, fractionating stills, a general section of wood chemistry, facilities for the study of wood fungi and insect pests and other features.

A sawmill, planers and a complete woodworking shop will prepare test material in all sizes, shapes and forms of construction needed.

The present forest products laboratory was established in 1910 in buildings owned by the University of Wisconsin. A site for the new building has been donated by the university.

"Forestry is concerned not only with timber growing but also with the efficient use and profitable marketing of forest crops," Garfield P. Winslow, director of the laboratory, said in explaining the purposes of the new building.

"The perpetuation of our forests and the reforestation of otherwise idle land largely depends upon the degree to which trees can be profitably converted into useful commodities. Consumption of lumber, for example, is increasingly a matter of competition with other materials and problems of diminishing use have perplexed the lumber industry and tended to discourage reforestation. Profitable use of our forests must be the keynote of forest growing in the future."

A staff of some 200 persons is employed at the laboratory.

SNIFFS, SNEEZES MARK BEGINNING OF HAY FEVER SEASON

If some friend or acquaintance has suddenly started sniffing, as if afflicted with a cold, or develops a sneezing habit, don't blame him or her for neglecting the health. It probably isn't a cold at all, but hay fever.

And incidentally hay fever isn't a fever at all, it doesn't come from hay and according to Dr. F. P. Dohearty, city physician it is more inconvenient than serious.

Hay fever time has arrived for another season and will continue until after the first frost, probably late in October. The ailment is an inflammation of the more accessible mucous membranes of the nose and usually is caused by pollen or by any one of a multitude of things, among others rag weed, golden rod, certain grasses, hickory nut trees or even grain.

Only two human races are known to be immune to hay fever, the American Indian and the Malay.

Wisconsin people so afflicted often find relief in the Lake Superior regions or Canada. Others go to one or more of the islands near the Mackinac Straits where in the words of the old saying, "miserly likes company"—and find relief.

BOOKS ON RUSSIA STILL ARE POPULAR

Detective Stories and Fiction Also in Demand at Library

Books on Russia, detective stories and fiction still hold their summer popularity at the public library. Not so many people come in to the library to read as in the winter time, according to librarians.

Just as much fiction is read and one of the books in popular demand is "The Road Back" by Eric Maria Remarque. Since this later book of Remarque's has been in circulation there has been a revival of his earlier war story, "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Interest in the economic situation in Russia has placed several books on the soviet country in circulation demand, "Red Bread" by Maurice Hindus is one of the newest books on Russia, published this year. Another recent one is M. Ilin's story of the four year plan in his "New Russia's Primer," in a translation by George Counts and Nudla P. Lodge. Other books on Russia include Sherwood Eddy's "The Challenge of Russia," "Russia," a description of slavonic nations of yesterday and today, edited by M. S. Stanovick; the diplomatic relations and the United States by James Goodwin who discusses the recognition of the soviet government; and Russia's expansion is discussed by F. H. Skrine in his book on the subject.

WON'T REQUIRE GOODS PEDDLED BY AGENTS

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, in a circular letter to the clerks of rural schools boards in the county, calls attention to the fact that he is not requiring any maps, charts, books or other school materials sold by agents. He points out that as a rule it is better to buy such articles from regular supply houses because they can be secured cheaper. Material offered by agents, Mr. Meating said, may be all right, but much of it is not well adapted to the needs of the schools. He said he has not given any letters to any agents and any one claiming to have the department's endorsement should be referred to the county offices for proof of such claims.

Gus Sell, county agent, today issued a bulletin to farmers asking those who desire a complete analysis of the soils in their fields to register with him at once. The request was issued at the instigation of C. J. Chapman, soils expert with the state department of agriculture. Mr. Chapman plans to be in the county early in September, when he will collect samples of soils from all farmers who register with Mr. Sell. These soils will then be tested for nitrogen, potash, phosphate and lime, and a complete report of the findings will be provided.

MANY PLANNING TO ENTER EXHIBITS IN FALL FLOWER SHOW

Gardens and Yards in Height of Color With Season's Blooms

Appleton gardens and front yards are all abloom with late summer and early fall flowers, many of which will be entered in the annual fall flower show at the Armory Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 29 and 30.

The flower show, sponsored by the flower and garden division of the chamber of commerce, is primarily for amateur flower lovers whose blooms are growing in their front yards or in a spacious garden.

Rows and rows of golden zinnias or astors make a line of color in front of many homes, beds of phlox or pretty larkspur nod their purple and lavender heads in the wind. Window boxes hold happy-faced pansies and blue forget-me-nots. Dachelor buttons, daisies, and bell-like blossoms are seen in individual gardens. Buttery bushes nod their blossomed branches and phlox is seen in all variations of colors.

Specimens of these flowers and many more should be chosen for the flower show for single flower entry, and from riotous colored gardens seen in the city there should be many outstanding artistic basket and vase displays. With careful tending the blooms will stay perfect for the show. Buds should be examined now to see that they are perfect, and then exhibit flowers must be carefully watered and cared for until next week. In choosing display flowers, it is best to have several specimens from which to choose.

GREEN BAY FAIR TO OPEN NEXT SATURDAY

Program Gets Under Way Sunday, Aug. 30, With Races, Vaudeville

The Northeastern Wisconsin fair will open next Saturday, Aug. 29, at the Green Bay-De Pere fair grounds for six days. The program starts Sunday afternoon with racing, grandstand events and vaudeville performances.

An exhibit of school children's work, women's handicraft and art work, live stock and poultry will be displayed in the various buildings.

Monday will be children's day, with tickets being sold at special prices to encourage families to attend. Tuesday will be Green Bay day and Wednesday will be De Pere day. Vaudeville performances will be shown on the stage every evening. Bands will play on the midway and in the grove. Horse racing will be the feature of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. Auto races will be held Thursday afternoon, Sept. 3. In the morning of the last day horse pulling contests will be held at 10 o'clock.

SEE RACE BETWEEN SCHNEIDER, CASHMAN

Political dopesters at Madison are of the opinion that friends of Congressman George J. Schneider, Appleton, representative of the Ninth Congressional district, are protesting because the Progressive leadership in the state is not frowning on the evident desire of State Senator John Cashman of Denmark to be a candidate against Mr. Schneider for the Republican nomination in the 1932 campaign. There have been hints, the forecasters say, that some of the Progressive leaders have thought that Mr. Schneider was too mild in the Progressive declarations and would prefer to see Mr. Cashman in a congressional seat. Mr. Schneider now is on his way to Europe where he plans to visit Germany, Denmark, Sweden and Finland.

BEGIN RESURFACING ONEIDA-ST MONDAY

Employees of the F. P. Coughlin Co., laying a black top pavement on River-dr in the upper Fourth ward will complete the work Monday, according to Ed Bass, superintending the job. With completion of the River-dr. project, the company will move to S. Oneida-st. where resurfacing operations will be started. Resurfacing will start at the city limits at E. Calumet-st. and continue north about seven blocks to McKinley-st. intersection. About eight days will be required to complete the Oneida-st job.

MAKE GOOD PROGRESS WITH PAVING OF ROAD

Good progress is being made on the paving of Highway 57 in Door-co, according to a report from the division state highway office at Green Bay. John Bloomer, Appleton contractor, is in charge of the construction work. Grading on this road has been completed from Brussels to the Kewaunee-co line and it is expected that in five or six weeks the paving will be ready.

The Green Bay office also announced that a bad curve on Highway 41, just at the north city limits of Green Bay, is to be widened to reduce the traffic hazard existing there.

Mrs. Adeline and Miss Mary Kausen left Friday morning for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. George Schneider at Port Arthur, Canada.

FREMONT MAN STRUCK AS HE WORKS ON ROAD

Albert Huebner, Town of Liberty, Injured While Blasting Stumps

A Waupaca-co highway patrolman and a town of Liberty farmer died Friday as the result of accidents, one the victim of a truck and the other of a dynamite blast.

Walter Wohlt, 30, Fremont, the patrolman, was struck by a truck, receiving injuries which resulted in his death at Community hospital, New London at 11 o'clock Friday night. The accident occurred on Highway 10 about two miles west of Fremont at 3:15 in the afternoon.

Albert Huebner, 55, town of Liberty, Outagamie-co farmer, was killed Friday morning while blasting stumps on the farm of his brother-in-law at Gleason. The body was found by members of the brother-in-law's family when they went to call Huebner for dinner. Huebner was alone at the time of the accident.

Survivors are the widow and six children: five daughters, Hazel, Florence, Gertrude, Angeline and Verne and one son, Erving who went to Gleason after the body. Two brothers, E. A. Huebner and August Huebner of New London also survive. Mr. Huebner had gone to Gleason Sunday.

The accident in which Wohlt lost his life is being investigated by Sheriff Arthur Steenbock of Waupaca. According to Eric Toepke, another highway worker, he and Wohlt had parked their trucks on the edge of a road and had placed red flags to indicate danger. They had a tar kettle behind the truck and had been pouring tar in cracks.

Skull Is Fractured
Wohlt went to the rear of the truck and was shoveling sand out of it when a truck driven by Edwin Hartauffer, 40, of Hartauffer, struck him, knocking him behind the tar kettle and fracturing his skull, left arm, left collar bone and jaw. The injured man was taken to a Fremont doctor and then taken to New London.

It has not yet been determined whether there will be an inquest. Wohlt is survived by his wife and five brothers, three sons and his parents. The funeral will be held at the Fremont Lutheran church next week.

The condition of Clyde Hagen, 25, Hortonville, who Friday slashed his throat with a razor was reported very good Saturday and his recovery is looked for. He has been in ill health for some time.

Three Wisconsin Rapids men who attended a baseball meeting here Friday night were injured when a truck in which they were riding skidded in loose gravel on highway 54 between Waupaca and Plover, went into the ditch and rolled over. The men were Stanley Stark, Fox River Valley league umpire, duzer, man on a blow on the head; Leo Huber, manager of the Rapids club, cut about head; and George Gibson, president of the Rapids baseball corporation, bruised. The car was demolished.

All three men were taken to a Wisconsin Rapids hospital, but were dismissed Saturday. The accident occurred on a turn in the road.

CITY PLAYGROUNDS END SEASON TODAY

Ten Week Period Held Most Successful in Five-year Program

City playgrounds, which have been in operation for the last ten weeks under direction of A. C. Denney, Lawrence college athletic director, and a staff of 12 assistants, closed for the season Saturday noon.

The season was considered the most successful in the five years the first playgrounds were opened, according to Mr. Denney. While the number of children using the grounds and the number of adults visiting them has not been determined, it is expected to set a new record.

Playground funds annually are supplied by the city of Appleton and expended through a Civic Council committee. The Council started the first playground project five years ago, financing the first year's work through popular subscription.

Various types of competitive athletic events were arranged for the children by the two directors on each ground. A girl director directed play among girls and smaller children, and a man directed the program among boys.

Swimming and athletic tests also were sponsored by the playgrounds and awards made for accomplishments. The city swimming pool, under direction of Tommy Ryan, was used in the former project.

Organization of softball leagues for players of all ages was another playground project. Three leagues for older boys and men were started, the Federal National and American leagues. The latter two were known as industrial leagues. The season was climaxed a few days ago with a three game series to decide the championship of the Industrial leagues. An inter league series also was held for the first time to determine which league was the stronger.

MANAWA MEN REPORT AFTER 2-WEEK HUNT

Appear Voluntarily to Face Charges of Stealing 1,000 Pounds of Sugar

A two-week hunt for three Manawa men, for whom warrants were issued on charges of stealing ten thousand pounds of sugar from the Borden Co. warehouse at Manawa the night of July 27, ended Saturday morning when the trio voluntarily reported at the office of L. D. Smith, Waupaca-co district attorney.

Brought before S. W. Johnson, justice of the peace, they pleaded guilty to the charge and were bound over to the November term of circuit court at Stevens Point. It was intimated Saturday noon, however, that Judge Byron B. Park, Stevens Point, might be willing to hear the case on Monday.

The three men are Thomas Flanagan, 28; William Nicolai, 23; and Ronald Colwell, 20. Warrants for the three were issued by District Attorney Smith on Monday, Aug. 10, after they failed to make their appearance in court.

Working on a tip received from the vicinity of Big Falls, where it was reported three young men had been selling sugar for $4.50 per 100 pounds, Sheriff Arthur Steenbock, Waupaca, questioned Nicolai's mother, who admitted that the three had the sugar in their possession.

Mrs. Nicolai said she would make arrangements to have them appear in court Monday morning, Aug. 10, but they failed to show up.

GIRLS RUN CITY AS OFFICERS GO TO PICNIC

2 OUTAGAMIE TEAMS WIN IN DISTRICT MEET

Demonstration Groups Will Go to State Contest at Milwaukee

Outagamie-co 4-H club demonstration teams carried off highest honors at the district contest at Waupaca yesterday, winning two first places. As a result both the boys' and girls' teams from this county will go to the state fair at Milwaukee in September to take part in the state contests. The girls' team, composed of Erwin Handesche and Lucille Gabriel of the Cooks' Pantry club of Hortonville, won first honors while the boys' team, composed of Erwin Handesche and H. so Dobberstein of the Pleasant Hills club, tied for other boys' clubs.

The girls' team demonstrated and discussed making salads and salad dressings while the boys' team demonstrated and discussed the Babcock plan of feeding milk and its use and value in herd improvement work. Alfred Handesche is leader of the Pleasant Hills' club, while Mrs. Steve Otis is leader of the Hortonville club. The girls were accompanied to Waupaca by Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent. Waushara-co was the only other county to have demonstration teams entered in the district contest. Waupaca-co was included in the district, but it did not enter any teams.

LINDBERGH'S AGAIN FORCED TO LAND

Fog Blanket Prevents Arrival at Nemuro After Hop from Islands

Nemuro, Japan.—(AP)—An enormous blanket of fog veiling the jagged peaks of Iturup island defeated Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh today in their renewed attempt to fly from the middle Kurile islands to Nemuro.

After having been held down near Muroto bay, Shimushiro island, since early Wednesday, by motor trouble and fog, the Lindberghs managed to get their plane in shape again after several hours of work and took off at 2:10 p. m. (12:30 a. m. E. S. T.) today for Nemuro, 400 miles to the southwest.

Reaching the mountainous coast of Iturup, the largest of the Kuriles, in about two hours, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh ran into heavy fog behind which lurked eight mountain peaks each 3,000 to 5,000 feet high. Lindbergh radioed their predicament to Oshima Wireless station here and was advised the safest place in that vicinity was at Shana, a small settlement on the Okhotsk sea side of the island.

The fliers followed the advice and soon were over Shana. Then they were confronted with the choice of landing on the choppy bay or on a small lagoon nearby. Lindbergh chose the latter. It proved to be a doubtful alternative, but radio advice said the landing was affected without damage to the plane's pontoons.

PERSONALS

Miss Phyllis Ornstein will arrive home Saturday evening from Ann Arbor, Mich., where she has been visiting.

Miss Josephine Siermas, Detroit, Mich., the guest at the home of Miss Phyllis Ornstein, 708 E. North-st.

Mrs. Frank Wentink and children, Chicago, who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Margaret Wentink, 538 N. Lave-st, for a week, returned home Saturday.

Miss Virginia Westphal and Miss Emma Baumann are spending the weekend in Chicago with relatives and friends.

GOING TO CLINIC

J. A. Panneck will attend the clinic all next week at the Palmer School of Chiropractic, Davenport, Iowa. Chiropractors from all parts of the country will be present. This is the yearly course which the school gives to field practitioners.

Cleveland and San Francisco both ranked among the leading contenders for 1932 conventions, have had one convention each. The nomination of Calvin Coolidge took place in Cleveland in 1924 and James M. Cox of Ohio was selected by the democrats in San Francisco in 1920.

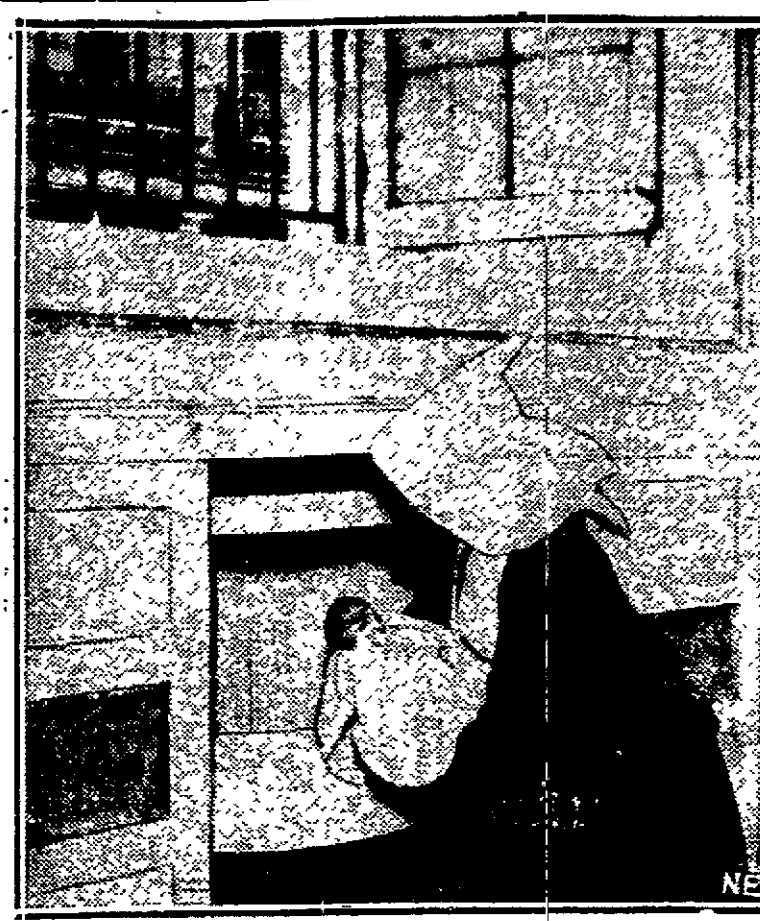

Other cities which have had a major party convention are Minneapolis, Denver and Houston. The republicans, meeting in the Minneapolis metropolis in 1923, nominated Benjamin Harrison for president and Whitelaw Reid for vice president.

Bryan's last nomination took place at the democratic convention in 1908 in Denver. John W. Kern of Indiana was his running mate. The first democratic convention to be held in the "deep south" was at Houston in 1853, when Alfred E. Smith was the nominee.

Beginning in 1833 the first six conventions of the democratic party were held in Baltimore.

How Havana Foundlings Get a Home

Despite agitation against it, this age-old custom of receiving foundlings in the Beneficencia de la Habana in Havana, Cuba, without knowing the identity of mother or child, is to continue. A bell rings inside the institution whenever a baby is placed in a slot in the wall, and here you see a nun receiving a little new-cum in the time-honored manner. She can't see the mother of the infant, who stands outside.

Mail Plane Lands With Broken Undercarriage

Skill and alertness on the part of "Cash" Chamberlain, formerly of Appleton, and now a pilot for the North West Airways, operating the mail and passenger line between Green Bay and Milwaukee, and ingenuity on the part of Eddie Gatzka of George A. Whiting airport here, Friday averted what might have been a serious accident at the port.

As Chamberlain took off with the morning mail from Oshkosh, he hit a bump which broke one of the "V" trusses on the under carriage of his plane. The damage was noticed by Oshkosh port officials, who immediately called Whiting port and told them to signal Chamberlain.

Gatzka and Emory Krueger, mail carrier out of the Appleton office, secured a wheel and a red flag and went out onto the runway where they successfully signalled Chamberlain to land.

He told Gatzka that he was unaware anything was wrong until he saw the men signalling him from the ground. The mail was sent through to Green Bay in a Whiting port plane and Chamberlain remained here until repairs were brought to him from Minneapolis. He left Appleton for Milwaukee about 1:15 Saturday morning.

Cancer Clue Is Found In Fish Color

Ithaca, N. Y.—(AP)—The bright-hued Mexican killifish gives a new clue for the study of cancer to Cornell university scientists. His color is one of the keys to the problem. This fish develops a "toy size" type of cancer, having the same wild cell growth which causes the human disease. This miniature is believed to hold the secret of unrestrained cells in a simplified form that may be studied successfully.

The work is in charge of Dr. H. D. Reed, professor of zoology, and Dr. Myron Gordon, with aid of funds from an August Heckscher grant.

They find that two kinds of cells gather to form the fish cancer, one type being those carrying the black color pigments. These color cells, macro-melanophores, occur in several strains of these fish and may remain perfectly normal. Whether they are passive accomplices, merely stimulated by the other cells, or are more closely allied with the primary cause is undetermined.

In this Cornell laboratory a distinct heredity of killifish cancer has been developed, which is not found in nature. It is produced by mating certain types of the fish, which have tumors. In nature the fish which would produce this result apparently do not mate.

Breeding also may be controlled to prevent development of cancer in these fishes. It appears, Dr. Reed states, that certain varieties of the fish produce the cells, called macro-melanophores, that are associated with cancer growth. Other varieties of cells furnish in their inheritance something which appears to aggravate this growth.

By proper selection the heritable factors for producing the disease may be avoided.

GENERAL BUTLER'S RETIREMENT HAS HOOVER APPROVAL

Marine Corps Leader Has Not Missed Chance to Fight in 33 Years

Washington.—(AP)—The stormy figure of Major General Smedley Darlington Butler is soon to pass from the marine corps.

President Hoover yesterday said he would be willing to grant the fighting marine's request for retirement with the understanding that his services will be readily available in time of war.

This hard-bitten, straight-shooting descendant of Quaker forebears has not missed a chance to fight in the 33 years since he entered the service, in uniform or out.

As a "leatherneck" campaigner and leader, as an energetic civic reformer setting out to "clean up" a great city, as the outspoken critic of foreign dignitaries—the pride of the devil dogs has known the publicity spotlight more often than any other marine.

His comrades will miss him. Men who have served under the dynamic general would follow him "through hell and back."

Outspoken and energetic, the wiry general packs all of his 140-odd pounds into everything he does, whether it be leading a cheer or a charge, making a speech or storming a Haitian fortress.

Boy and man, he has been in the corps for most of his 55 years. In private life he expects to spend much of his time defending it.

Fireworks Ahead
Upon his retirement Oct. 1, Butler plans "to tell some of these people who abuse our corps where the hell they get off."

There has been some talk of his running for election to the senate or to the house as a Republican representative of the Philadelphia suburban district where he has bought a home.

As democratic as he is a dramatic, Butler, now commander of the Quincito, Va., marine base, probably calls more of his men by their first names than any other general.

He recently has been engaged in controversies involving such Premier Mussolini of Italy, Alphonse Capone, the gangster, and the Haitian minister to the United States.

In a Philadelphia speech last January he declared Mussolini had run down a child and failed to stop his car. The remark precipitated Butler into a full-sized international episode which ended with a state department apology to Mussolini and plans for court-martialing the general. The court-martial later was dropped.

Three months later the general placed a bonny foreigner, a paper headline quoting Dantes Bellegrando, then minister from Haiti, as saying that a Haitian fortress for the capture of which Butler received his second medal of honor was nonexistent. The general abruptly challenged the statement and brought from Bellegrando the explanation that he had been misquoted.

View On Capone
Shortly before, Butler had declared in a Chicago speech that Al Capone would be deported. "When public opinion becomes aroused," he said, "a Haitian fortress for the capture of which Butler received his second medal of honor was nonexistent. The general abruptly challenged the statement and brought from Bellegrando the explanation that he had been misquoted."

When Philadelphia borrowed Butler during 1924-25 to act as director of public safety, he fought bootleggers and other lawbreakers relentlessly until replaced by another man.

A similar mission brought him a leave of absence from the marines last May and carried him to Oregan where he reorganized the state police at the request of officials.

In 1926 Butler had Colonel Alexander Williams of the San Diego marine base, his host at dinner, court-martialled on charges of drunkenness.

Since the time in 1938 when he enlisted in the marines at 17 "by putting his age up a bit," General Butler has served in Cuban waters, the Philippines, China, Porto Rico, Panama, Nicaragua, Mexico, Haiti and France.

Among his decorations are two medals of honor, for gallantry in Haiti and at Vera Cruz; distinguished service medals of both the army and navy for his work as commander of Camp Pontanzen at Brest during the World war, a Boxer rebellion medal; two French and one Haitian decorations and 19 campaign medals.

To his men he is known behind his back—as "Old Gimlet Eye."

FLEES REFORMATORY FARM; TWO CAPTURED

Green Bay.—(AP)—Wisconsin State reformatory and local authorities were searching today for Zigmund Grebzyak, 38, who walked away from the Fernside farm near here late yesterday. Grebzyak, Milwaukee, serving a one to two year term for burglary, is described as about five feet, 8 inches tall and dark complexioned.

The institution's "score" was better than ever, however, because within a few hours of the report of Grebzyak's escape, Sgt. Earl J. Edmund was advised of the capture of two escaped inmates. Arthur Hoepfner, who escaped from the Fernside farm a year ago, was captured in Ashland and Leo Stenzel, who broke parole five or six years ago, was apprehended in Milwaukee. Edmund said.

JACK PICKFORD ILL
Hollywood, Calif.—Jack Pickford, brother of Mary Pickford, was reported seriously ill from his cold and confined to bed today.

The former Mary Pickford, was said to be in constant attendance at his bedside. Pickford has been in poor health.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Weyenberg, Cedar Beach, are visiting relatives in Appleton this week.

RUBBER WHEELS TRIED OUT FOR RAILWAY TRAVEL

New Invention Permits Smooth, Soundless Running, Is Claim

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS

Paris.—A revolution in railway travel within the next few years is predicted here after highly successful tests of a motor-driven coach with pneumatic rubber wheels. It made 75 miles an hour without any noise except the purr of the motor and the rush of wind.

The rubber tires which permit smooth soundless running on ordinary rails are similar to automobile tires, but fitted on the inside is a steel flange which operates on the same principle as that of a steel train wheel.

Tests Very Successful
The tire design has been perfected by the Michelin Tire Company, and tests were made over a line of the French State Railroads running out of Chevreuse.

The car is simply a large automobile which runs on tracks. Several models have been developed, but the latest, known as the Michelin, seats 24 passengers. It has a 46 horse power motor, a body streamlined to cut down wind resistance and is operated by one man in a little compartment behind the motor. The body is of light corrugated metal and is not unlike that of an airplane and the interior is lined with soundproof felt. The oval windows resemble port holes.

Gliding over the ground in this car, without any vibration or grinding, is like riding in an airplane without the noise. It is infinitely more comfortable than ordinary road travel because there are no bumps and the way is clear.

Quick Stops and Pickup
The rubber tire with its metal flange grips the rails so securely as to allow a wheel, but takes switches and curves so smoothly that there is no consciousness of high speed.

One of the greatest advantages of the car is that it can pick up speed quickly and come to a stop at short notice without any jerking. In this respect it is easily two-thirds more responsive than an ordinary train. Hence complicated signalling systems to avoid danger of crashes are not necessary and cars may be run at short intervals on the same line.

The practical value of this car will be primarily in its use on suburban or other short runs, according to M. Gillet, an engineer of the Michelin Company. The cost of operation is very little compared with that of a heavy train and a string of cars could be run over a line, stopping frequently, and the same time assuring passengers comfort and quietness.

Its engineers say there is no danger in case of a puncture or blow-out caused by artificial means caused no change in the smooth running. Inside the tire there is a wooden core to take care of such emergencies. The thick rubber covering sinks only slightly when its compression is lost and the car need not necessarily be stopped at once for repairs or a change of wheels. The possibility of a puncture is greatly reduced because, due to the smoothness of the rails, the wear on the tire is much less than on an ordinary road.

It is estimated by Michelin engineers that the weight of the rubber-tired railway coach is only one-third per passenger compared with that of an ordinary railway car. The immense saving in running expense and the possibilities of improved service are they say, incalculable.

ALLEGED MOONSHINER KILLED
Chicago.—(AP)—Adolph Petrov, 34, 77, retired laborer, was shot to death last night while he worked over a bar after boiler of wash on his kitchen stove. Police said the man, too old to work, had turned moonshiner because he liked the work.

WANTS TO SEE POLES GUARDED BY NEW TREATY

Heads of Germany and France Has Discussed Matter Together

BY ARNO DOSCH-FLEURET
Paris.—(AP)—Just exactly what does France want from Germany in the way of political guarantees?

During the exciting business of saving Germany financially there was much talk of France insisting upon political guarantees.

Premier Pierre Laval and Chancellor Heinrich Brüning admitted they skirted the subject a dozen times in the conversations they held in Paris, in London and en route. It is also to be presumed that when they gained each other's confidence, they went to the bottom of the matter.

But it was, for home politics, much too early for either of them to admit such an exploration.

The main guarantee France wants from Germany looks simple enough. It wants Germany to give the same guarantees for the inviolability of its other principal frontiers that it gave, at Locarno, for the French and Belgian frontiers.

See War Clouds
The Locarno pact, to French eyes has even a certain liability attached so long as Germany does not give equal guarantees for its Polish and Austrian frontiers.

The French can see possible wars arising from breaches of these frontiers.

There was a treaty of arbitration signed between Germany and Poland at Locarno, but the inviolability of the frontiers was not agreed to by Germany. In Germany, it is also common knowledge, the present German-Polish frontiers, notably the Polish corridor, have never been accepted as inevitable as has the loss of Alsace and Lorraine.

What France fears is that a combined Germany and Russia may some day crush Poland like a nut, and France, in Germany, in circumstances could do little about it.

The Rhine inviolability agreement would even prevent France from going to Poland's rescue and with Poland crushed, France would find it had an eastern neighbor which, effectively, reached to the Pacific.

Promises Arms Cuts
Just as no German government kept the loss of the east to the east," no Frenchman can think of Poland without concern.

It, however, Germany were to sign an "eastern Locarno," the French believe the "political unrest" would vanish.

In the disarmament memorandum just issued by the French government, it is said that France dared to reduce her land forces only because of the Locarno guarantees of Rhine inviolability.

An eastern Locarno, it can be inferred, would make possible another big cut in land forces in all Europe.

Guaranteeing the Austrian frontier would be another matter. The French would be another question. The French consider, as it would make impossible the "anschluss," or political union, with Austria, and prevent a common frontier between Germany and Hungary and between Germany and Italy.

Brueining Cites Covenant
Such are the principal guarantees which, in the final analysis, France wants from Germany.

Brueining was reported to have said to Laval that he could not go into the question of political guarantees because Article 19 of the Covenant of the League of Nations provides that the league take up "the consideration of international questions whose consequences might endanger the peace of the world."

The French answer is: "Stresemann did not hesitate at Locarno." To which the German comeback is: "We were not members of the league at the time."

GREEN BAY LABOR HALL TO BE OPENED SUNDAY

Green Bay.—(AP)—The new Green Bay labor temple, one of the very few in Wisconsin owned by labor will be opened officially here tomorrow with Gov. Philip LaFollette giving the dedication address. J. M. Jahnke, attorney of the hall, said that Henry O. J. Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, Mayor John Diener and others prominent in state and local labor circles also will speak. The building cost approximately $110,000 and has a large auditorium, dining room, recreation hall, stores, offices and meeting rooms.

FIRE DAMAGES BARN
The roof and upper portion of a barn owned by Herman Lovenshagen, 927 W. Fifth-st, was damaged by fire about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. An automobile garage was removed without damage from the building. The flames are believed to have originated from a bon-fire at the rear of the barn.

THE PLACE OF MRS. LA FOLLETTE

The death of Mrs. La Follette has brought forth a great amount of editorial comment concerning the place she occupied and the effect her personality accomplished on the long public career of her husband.

That may be an interesting excursion but it is next to impossible to arrive at any definite conclusion because, except as the wife of one of the country's distinguished citizens, she played no part that appeared before the public, so that an accurate and definite estimate can be made only by personal friends.

It is a fact, however, that she did make one decision, a difficult one to make, that displayed not only excellent judgment but involved a skillful weighing of conflicting considerations, and her firm verdict had a natural and lasting instead of momentary effect upon the fortunes of certain political policies in which she must have been keenly interested.

When requested to run for the senate to fill the vacancy made by the death of her husband, she must have realized that success would undoubtedly await her candidacy. She chose definitely and decisively not to be a candidate. She realized that the success of political policies should never be thrown as a matter of expediency to any particular person and that if those policies were carried forward now, more active and younger shoulders must be assigned to the task. Perhaps, too, she recognized the practical fact, that albeit women are lawfully and mentally fit to fill any important position, they might not, in a practical sense, carry on as effectively as men.

Without resorting to rumor or imagination as to the part she played in an important American political drama covering forty years the fact remains that she made in this signal matter a clear-headed, unselfish and capable decision.

Would that more persons in similar situations exercised as good judgment.

FIRMNESS IN IMMIGRATION

The Wickersham Commission's sharp criticism of the way Uncle Sam deals with the aliens whom he has to send back to their homes is a healthy reminder that a change has come over the old gentleman in recent years.

Uncle Sam, in fact, seems to have grown rather peevish and irritable—not to say downright hard-boiled. We like to think of him as kindly and judicious. Cartoonists almost always draw him that way. But there are times, evidently, when that picture hardly fits him.

For a great many years America was a magic name to the people of Europe—especially to the people who were the victims of man's inhumanity to man.

However bad things might be in the old country, there was always the vision of a promised land across the Atlantic—a land presided over by patriarchal Uncle Sam, who would receive any fugitive from anywhere without asking any questions, and who would offer the most down-trodden of men a chance to make a new start under a more kindly sun.

But that has changed now. Uncle Sam stands at the gates, and he quizzes new arrivals very sharply. If he catches anyone getting in without his express permission he acts sternly and swiftly.

This, of course, was inevitable. Conditions aren't what they were half a century ago. For a time Uncle Sam was a bit too hospitable for his own good.

Nevertheless, if the old attitude had to change Uncle Sam hardly needed to become truculent about it.

The Wickersham report discloses that aliens have been handled arbitrarily in many cases. Injustice and stupidity have been exhibited by the guardians of the gates all too frequently.

All of this can be remedied without in any way relaxing the restrictions that are imposed on immigrants. Uncle Sam can be stern without being hard-boiled. He can be vigilant without being peevish. He can defend his own interests without losing sight of his sense of justice and fair play.

SELFISH POLITICS

Nothing could better illustrate the attitude of the hard-boiled politician than John F. Curry's plaintive remark that Tammany Hall is being persecuted by designing New York Republicans.

Naturally, the Republican party leaders in New York are delighted at the sorry mess that the Seabury committee has uncovered in New York City. It will all make fine fuel for the next campaign. They would not be human if they weren't pleased at the turn things have taken.

But Mr. Curry's complaint that Tammany is being "crucified" is something else again. The remark would be laughable if it had not been made in all seriousness. As it is, it provides us with a beautiful cross-section of the mind of a political boss.

Consider the situation in New York. Seabury's investigators brought to light crookedness on the police force, crookedness in the police courts, crookedness on city contracts, crookedness in branch after branch of the city government—the revelations have been as shocking as anything in the history of American municipal government.

Obviously, Tammany hall, dominant in New York City, must bear the responsibility. But what does the head of Tammany say about it all? Tammany is being persecuted!

Back of this complaint, of course, there is the viewpoint of selfish politics at its worst; the viewpoint which places loyalty to party far above loyalty to city or state; the viewpoint from which duty to the party seems far more important than duty to one's community; the viewpoint from which a fight for decent government can be interpreted only in terms of partisan enmity.

That viewpoint, unfortunately, is not confined to Tammany. It exists, in greater or lesser degree, in every active political organization. It is, more than anything else, the one great obstacle to good government in the United States today.

NATURE PROVIDES RELIEF

Nature's vagaries ever keep humankind on the qui vive. For the most part her bounteous blessings instill feelings of gratitude among those who depend upon her rich stores of rain and sunshine and friendly winds for the sustaining things of life.

Sometimes she is neglectful of her duties, withholding her beneficent gifts and leaving distress and disaster in her wake.

Such a condition occurred in Arkansas last year, resulting in one of the severest droughts in the history of the state. The distress of the people was so acute that the Red Cross and other charitable organizations were hard-pressed to cope with the situation.

The people, ninety-nine per cent native born Americans, carried on with faith in the future and the belief that Nature would again smile on their stricken lands.

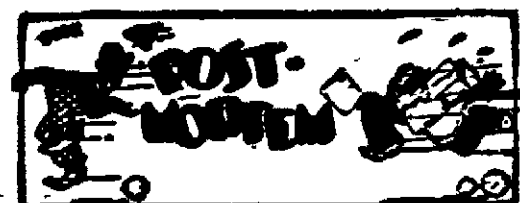

They have been amply rewarded. Governmental loans for seeds and widespread agitation for greater diversification started the mills of the gods to grinding exceedingly well. Those who formerly had depended upon cotton alone for their livelihood, planted food crops for their animals and garden truck for themselves.

Having been urged and assisted to sow, Nature blessed them with the rain and the sunshine and helped them to reap. The result has been the most remarkable crop in the memory of the oldest citizens.

Feed for livestock is so plentiful that farmers are finding it difficult to provide storage facilities. The pantries and cellars are full and this winter there will be no bread lines or Red Cross feeding camps.

Diversification, with Nature's help, has solved a distressing situation. With cotton selling at the lowest figure since 1915, the people are not discouraged. They are proud of their gardens and their fields of corn and hay.

Nature returned with her bounteous blessings and "The flush of life may well be seen thrilling back over hills and valleys."

THE PROMOTERS and the allied lads who make a snappy living off "charity exhibitions" are simply aghast at what's going on in Chicago. . . . rep, they're putting on an exhibition ball game for charity and every cent is going for sweet charity's sake. . . . the ushers don't get paid. . . . the players, umpires and whatnots don't get paid. . . . the promoters don't make a cent off it. . . . it's a wonderful idea, gives a new meaning to charity contests that actually give something to charity. . . . but what's this. . . . no passes? . . . everybody to pay? . . . not even passes for the newspaper people? . . . terrible, lousy, an outrage. . . . no passes for the newspapers. . . . the contest ought to be stopped.

Yeah—but Look at His Salary

Dear Jonah:

My pet peeve right now is Rudy Vallee.

After reading his lovely story about his beautiful courtship of fair "Fay" and "can a man love more than one woman" etc., etc., I've decided that he will make "Fay" a dandy wife.

If I never hear him play again it will be too soon!

Dee Jay Cee

Animals are getting less and less smart these days. Down in Virginia, huh, a robin tried to carry off a bullfrog. They rascled around for some time, finally, the bullfrog got hold of the robin, dragged him under the water and drowned him.

And a beaver in New York wanted a certain tree for building a dam. So he gnawed the tree down, but, as he tried to drag it away, he found that a clothesline was attached to it. Instead of biting through the clothesline, he very politely chewed the tree above and below the rope and dragged the untied parts away.

It may be a terrific shock to all of you who go to the movies and like to see Clark Gable. Clark is the lad who usually plays the part of a big, wicked gangster for whom beautiful society girls go wrong. Anyway, there's a salad—yes, TITIE, a SALAD—named after him. It's made out of lettuce, grapefruit and cottage cheese.

What price glory?

Isabella P. Q. writes in to ask why Boers, the beautiful lads of the Post-Crescent's comic page, didn't marry Mr. X, the prince. Well, Isabella, the prince would have lost his job and Boers was just too big-hearted a girl to do anything like that. And anyway, it would have thrown an awful crimp into Mr. Martin's comic strip. Supposing Boers HAD married the Prince. What then? Yes, a comic strip artist has to keep his characters in more or less a state of suspense all the time. It's part of the business.

Another one of summer's fleeting weekends just ahead. Make the most of it. There aren't many more left. (Unless it rains.)

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

PURPOSE

Out in the country miles away
From teeming throngs and clanging bells
Within a farm house beaten gray
A very lonely woman dwells.

The spot is desolate and bleak,
Exhausted soil lies all about,
Yet day by day and week by week
She labors there with courage stout.

The struggling flowers that come to bloom Seem under-nourished, as does she
As if for them life had no room
To spare where they could happier be.

Without complaint, the neighbors say,
But with a certain touch of grace
And thought for all who pass her way
This toll-worn woman keeps her place.

'Tis told of her, when one inquired
How she could stand a life so drear
She smiled and said: "When I grow tired
I always think God needs me here."

Looking Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

Saturday, August 20, 1921

Two persons were killed and fifty to one hundred injured in a devastating storm which swept over Wisconsin late the previous Friday afternoon.

An application for a marriage license was made that day by William A. Schulze and Marie Cloy, Appleton.

A son was born the preceding Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bayer, 1115 Fifth.

William Smith and family had returned from a two weeks' visit to Antigo.

Marguerite Russell was visiting her father, H. W. Russell, Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. George Limpert and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Limpert left the previous Friday evening for Canada.

Mrs. George Hoh and son, Ralph, and Mrs. Matilda Jacquet left that day for Escanaba, Mich., where they were to be guests of Mrs. Hoh's brother, Robert, Newship.

Mr. and Mrs. August Arens had returned from a two weeks' visit with friends in Chicago.

Mrs. Lida Schreiter, Mrs. E. W. Douglas, and Mrs. T. J. Long left that day for Streeter, Ill., where they were to be guests of their sister, Mrs. E. S. Baer, for a week.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Saturday, August 25, 1906

During the severe storm that passed over Appleton and struck the northern part of Outagamie on the previous Saturday afternoon, the lightning struck a telephone pole in the town of Osborn and traveled along the wires until 12 poles had been splintered to the ground.

Hard coal was selling at $8.25 a ton in Appleton.

Charles Wirth had returned from a business trip to Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Gintz left that afternoon for Marinette where they were to spend a few days with friends.

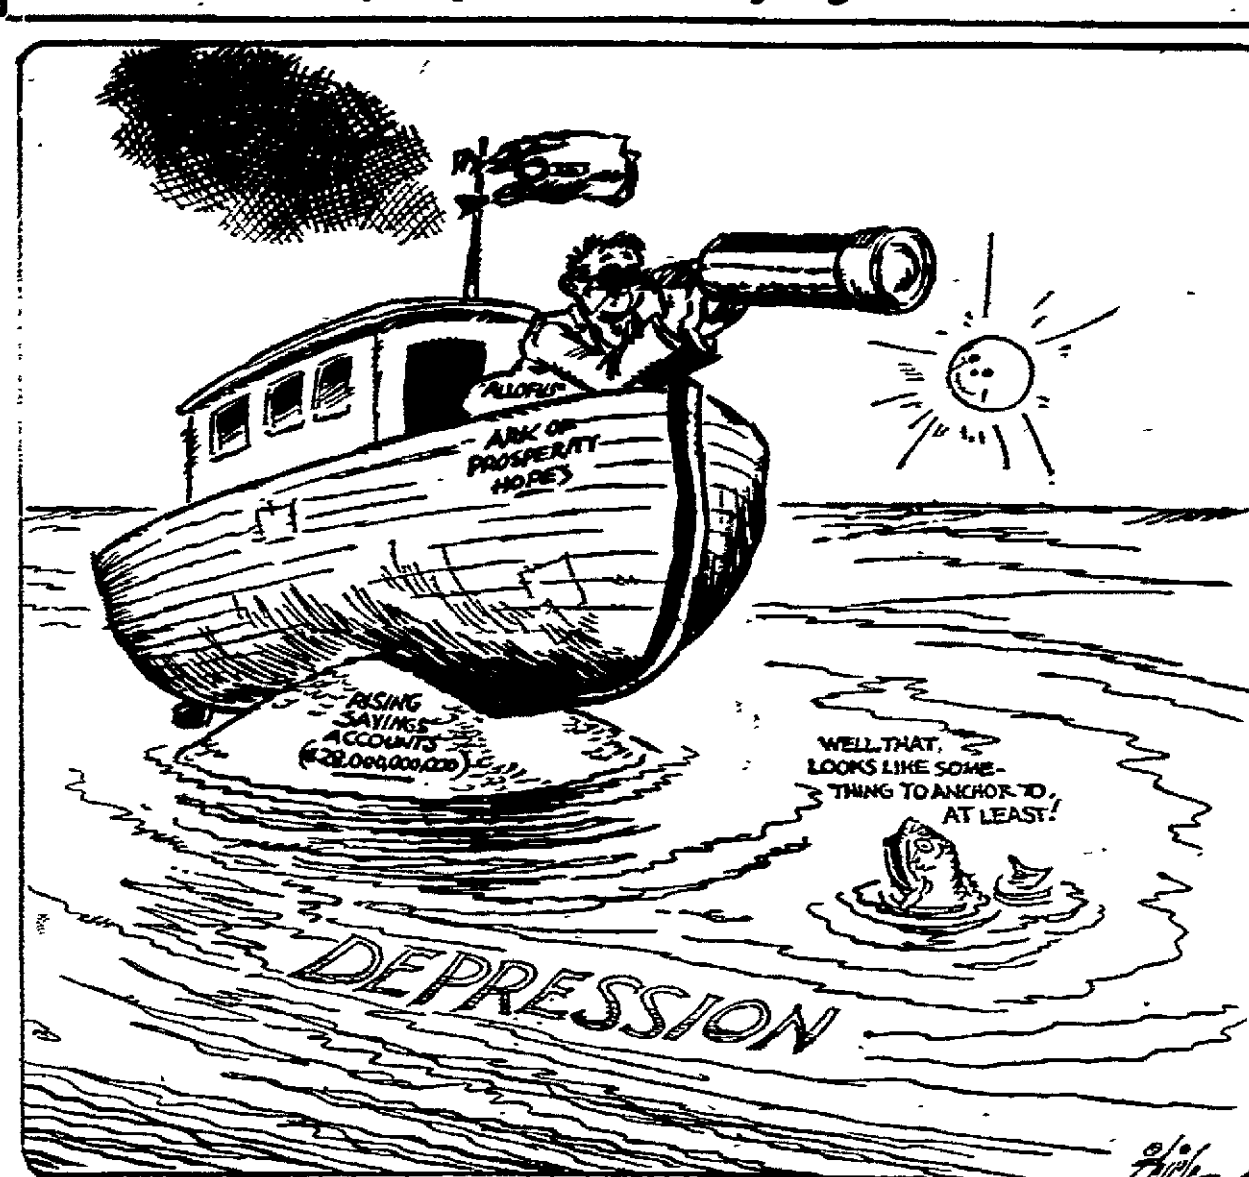

Emil Voelke returned the previous night from Milwaukee where he had attended a butchers' convention.

Harry E. Wambold had returned from Milwaukee where he attended the convention of Knights of Pythias.

Mrs. W. L. Lyons and daughter, Miriam, returned that afternoon from a three months' visit with relatives in the east.

Mrs. R. Zerbel and daughter, Bessie, had returned home after a short visit with relatives and friends at Milwaukee.

PEPTIC ULCER AND THE HIGHER CULTURE

If you have a little peptic ulcer in your home don't get snooty about it. When all is said and done it is just as indicative of culture as is an unbroken crease in your old man's best trousers. Females have 60 per cent of all the known peptic ulcers in the country—just as they have sixty per cent of about everything else. Perhaps that explains why peptic ulcer is associated with the claim of intellectual superiority.

The truth is we know very little about the health conditions or the diseased condition of savages or uncivilized tribes. We know as little about other people and the way they live as we do about the customs of modern China. Our childish innocence concerning China is shown in the serious way we take that old hokum about the Chinese paying the doctor only while they remain well and stopping his pay if he ever takes him when they fall ill. Sometimes I get so mad I could lam a book right through the window when I find that the explorer or traveler who pretends to tell about the customs of some outlandish tribe hasn't a word to say about their health or disease conditions.

Putting a suggestion from this medical authority and one from another authority together and finding their ideas, observations and theories dovetail nicely, one acquires certain definite impressions from browsing through medical literature, impressions that stick. For instance we don't seem to understand why peptic (stomach or duodenal) ulcer is so common in this country, but recently there has been a tendency to ascribe the trouble to vitamin deficiency in our modern refined diet.

This idea is rather supported by the extraordinary observation of an English army surgeon who lived for nine years among Himalayans, doing thousands of operations yet never seeing a case of peptic ulcer or appendicitis. McCarrison attributed the freedom of these primitive people from such diseases to their diet, which consisted mainly of fresh vegetables and fruits, milk and eggs—no vitamin deficiency in such natural food.

If you have gastric or duodenal ulcer you can't very well indulge in fresh vegetables and fruits as freely as a healthy person should. But if you are just training for ulcer, so to speak, perhaps you can take a chance and gobble some fresh vegetables raw. For healthy folk this is certainly a good habit—to eat some fresh vegetable or relish whole and raw every day. What can be more palatable to a normal appetite than a raw fresh carrot or fresh turnip or even a fresh raw whole tomato if you care for them. I hate 'em, but I eat 'em just because I'm afraid I'll miss something if I don't. Or by the way of a relish or salad what is finer than a basket of raw cabbage, cold slaw, preferably the green cabbage? The green contains more Vitamin A than white cabbage.

I have tried to set down in brief what advice I would offer about this, to eat—

(1) Suggestions of foods to take and foods to avoid, for those with peptic ulcer, hyperacidity of stomach or heartburn.

(2) Menu for People Who Have to Live With Peptic Ulcer Patient.

(3) Booklet about foods, diets, etc., "Guide to Right Eating." For (1) or (2) send your request (not a clipping) and stamped envelope bearing your address; for (3) add ten cents in coin.

Something For Malaria

Please tell me what I should get for malaria, as I have it bad. (M. S. L.)

Get Your Iodine

Our druggist says he has never heard of iodine ration and cannot find it anywhere. What is the joke? (C. H.)

Answer. No joke. Just a sad rant. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and I'll send you detailed instructions for getting your iodine. No instructions if you don't.

So You're Going to See?

I am planning a trip to Europe this summer. Have crossed the Atlantic three times and every time have suffered seasickness. Kindly send me your remedy for preventing it. (P. M. B.)

Answer—Gladly, if you will inclose with your request a stamped envelope bearing your address. And, by heaven, if you fail to record what effect you obtain this trip I hope you have the mal de mer all the way over and back.

If You Can't Catch 'Em Feed 'Em

Deep sea fishing is my favorite sport. But the discomfort of seasickness prevents me from enjoying it as much as I would like. (H. E. S.)

Answer—Follow the suggestion I gave Mrs. B. just forinst. I like to hear from you bad sailors about this, for if my treatment staves off the trouble in your case it means something. That is, it does if you have the grace to tell me about it later.

The Tinymites

By Hal Cochran

NOW Scouty was a smart young lad. To Cloway he said, "You had some nice fat worms to feed those birds, you'd be real safe and sound. They wouldn't bite you, I am sure. Come on, some worms we will secure." And so they looked around until a lot of worms were found.

Then Cloway crawled up to the birds and said a few real friendly words. At first the birds looked very cross. They ruffled up their wings. "Now wait," said Cloway. "You will see that you need not be scared of me." He held his worms up high and said, "How would you like these things?"

Both birds grew quite excited and stuck out their bills towards Cloway's hand. He fed them till the worms were gone. My, how they liked the treat. But neither one seemed satisfied, so Cloway very loudly cried, "Hey, Tinymites, run out and get them something more to eat."

That simple task was shortly done and then the whole bunch had some fun. They'd hold the worms up high and watch the birds snap very quick. "Well, we've made friends," wee Cloway said. And then he patted one bird's head. Another cried, "At grabbing worms those birds are surely slick."

The Travel Man had walked away and soon the whole bunch heard him say, "Come here, you lads. Here's something new, that you have never seen." The Tinymites rushed up and then were very much surprised again. "They're birds," said wee Cloway. "And I've heard they're very mean."

"You bet they are. They often bite, but all of you will be all right, if you just let them both alone," replied the Travel Man. "Among the rocks here they are found. Just stand and watch them crawl around." A hard crawl toward Cloway and away he promptly ran.

A Bystander In Washington

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—It's a regular battlefield doctor who keeps the President of the United States in physically good condition.

And to Capt. Joel Thompson Boone orders are to be obeyed by his patients, whether he be a President or some one of lesser rank.

This small man, slenderly erect, dark and with steady serious eyes, doesn't seem the type of person who could play the part of a "taskmaster" on occasions. But he can, and does, as White House physician.

Thus when he thought that President Hoover should arise early in the morning and have a medicine ball around the White House lawn before tackling the day's work, the President did so.

Fishing is about the only form of recreation for which Mr. Hoover has displayed a real love, but his "medicine balls" just the same.

Yet "Doc" Boone is far from being the serious-minded and exacting man of medicine.

Likes His Joke

If a practical joke is perpetrated at the President's week-end camp on the Rapidan, usually it can be traced either to the good doctor or Lawrence Richey, one of the White House secretaries. Junior cabinet members who have been guests at the Rapidan can testify to that.

He is a general favorite with newspapermen who cover the White House. There are few of them he hasn't taken in hand when they were ailing.

His decorations—the croix de guerre and the distinguished service cross—were earned under shell fire at Belleau Wood.

As far as is known, Captain Boone has no political ambitions, though his job in the past has served as a stepping stone to higher things.

President Wilson's physician, Dr. Cary Grayson, got to be a nationally known figure as well as an admirable doctor, through a White House assignment.

Road To Renown

And there was Doctor Sawyer, who came from Marion, Ohio, to attend President Harding. He got to be a general officer of the medical reserve by the same route and later turned to veteran's hospitalization work.

Perhaps the case of the late Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood is the most outstanding. As an army doctor he served as medical-military aide to President McKinley.

It was at the White House that he met up with Theodore Roosevelt. From this association came the famous Rough Rider command in the Spanish-American war that ultimately led Wood almost to the Presidency itself.

And "Doc" Boone, who holds the rank of lieutenant commander in the navy, is Captain Boone as long as he serves at the White House.

SHARP ACTION ON FRONTS

On Aug. 23, 1917, the British captured strategic positions for a mile along the Ypres-Meun road, repulsed counter attacks of the German crown prince, and penetrated the German trenches to the north.

Sharp actions on several other fronts took place on this date also.

The Germans began an offensive between the Tournai marshes and the River Aa, and penetrated the Russian positions. The Italians advanced on the northern and southern wings of the Isonzo front in the great drive on Trieste.

Zeppelins raided Yorkshire, England, killing one man, and Gotta air planes raided Dover, Margate and Ramsgate, killing 11 persons and injuring 12. Eight German planes were shot down.

Germans attacked Vandelaincourt hospital, killing 10 wounded men, one woman nurse, and 19 men nurses.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Up around Broadway and 177th street apartment house dwellers are being visited by representatives of the motion picture machine operators' union, who present checker boards and men and suggest that the family spend the evenings at home playing, rather than attend the neighborhood theater.

The doorbells ring. There is a man or woman who hands you a modest checker outfit, and tells of difficulties with the theater. The neighborhood has been widely canvassed.

Other representatives pass out fans to persons in the vicinity, inscribed with the name of the disagreement. Occasionally a patron could be seen going into this particular theater carrying one of the fans to keep himself cool while viewing the show.

Just Little Pet

That 46-foot mechanical dinosaur contrived for a new revue henceforth will be known as Joe Bush—merely because that happens to be a simpler identifying moniker for various kind and sundry individuals around the theater which will house it.

About 45 different presentations of "dinosaur" were heard around the house in discussions of plans to receive the metal monster, and a couple of the boys back stage still think it's the Scotch command to stop sawing.

The other rainy night the concert scheduled for the stadium was transferred to the Big Hall at the College of the City of New York.

The many members of the orchestra were coatless, but it is customary for the conductor to wear a coat, regardless.

Fritz Reiner, however, reminded the assemblage of the extreme heat and asked if the ladies would object if he removed his coat. The ripple of applause approving his sanity was drowned the next minute by a wave of guittuffs. Fritz was wearing braces—which doesn't seem so amusing here.

Well, why shouldn't a conductor wear suspenders? Even red ones, if he wants to.

Dirt Farmers Needed

Not long ago, you may recall, a youth was arrested here for taking a little dirt from city property for his mother's flower pot.

JOB GUARANTEE PLAN PART OF AID PROGRAM

Stabilization of Employment Would Stimulate Buying by Workers

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1931, By Post Pub. Co.
Washington (CPA)—Selection of Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph
Co. to form an unemployment relief organization under the direction of President Hoover marks the first step toward what is expected to be the most comprehensive program the federal government has ever attempted to care for the jobless.

While the major object, of course, is to extend relief agencies, it is recognized that an equally important problem is to stabilize employment. Thus the hesitancy on the part of the masses who are employed to make normal purchases creates unemployment because the slackened demand curtails the operation of the producer.

It is now planned to persuade business and industry generally, where ever possible, to give assurance to employees as to the continuity of operation, and such information will be duly distributed where it will do the most good.

Various plans to stabilize employment are under consideration but the idea of guaranteeing or assuring employees of steady work—which of course industry can do only of its own volition—is the principal proposal of the hour.

Count on Psychology
To carry out such a plan is almost as difficult as the efforts that were made to prevent wage reductions.
Individual business has to be judged for itself whether it can maintain the wage level or whether it must curtail operations. There are, however, many more businesses which are not at all doubtful about the next twelve months and which have orders in hand warranting assurance to their employees as to steady work. The belief prevails here that a psychological influence of large proportion will be created if the idea of letting the employees know long in advance that their jobs are assured were to be carried out.

On the relief side, the work done by Col. Arthur Wood last year stands out as a monument of real achievement and Mr. Gifford will endeavor to pick up the threads and renew vigorously the plea for coordination between relief agencies to prevent overlapping and waste.
While it is evident that relief work next winter will have to be more extensive than last year, nevertheless the increase in the number of the unemployed is expected to be not unexpected to strain the organizations already formed, provided contributions come in as they did last winter.

Because a great deal of work has already been done in organizing relief, the task of caring for the additional unemployed is expected to be handled effectively by the state and municipal agencies already organized.

It is recognized that Mr. Gifford's organization, by getting under way in midsummer, will be able to forestall criticism that might be forthcoming when congress convenes in December. In other words, the monetary campaign will have at least three months to get under way and the money raised probably will point to the aid of the unemployed.

DISMISSAL LIKELY FOR MIDSHIPMEN

Several Accused of Overstepping Bounds of Discipline on Cruise

Washington (CP)—For overstepping the bounds of army discipline on this summer's training cruise to European ports, several midshipmen today faced dismissal from the naval academy.

From forty to ten men were said by navy department officials to be involved. All were members of the first or third classes and among the 49 midshipmen who returned on Aug. 13 from a trip of more than two months aboard the battleships Arkansas and Wyoming.

Whether the infractions of rules occurred ashore or on board ship was not divulged. The department's policy of "making no statement on midshipmen in trouble" was reiterated and all details were withheld.
It was learned, however, a preliminary report had been made to the bureau of navigation which handles personnel by Rear Admiral Thomas
C. Hart, academy superintendent.

This followed a report to the superintendent by Rear Admiral Claude C. Bloch, commander of the cruise.

Captain Ralph E. Pope, acting chief of the bureau of navigation, said the normal procedure would be for the individual involved to make a statement in their own defense.
Unless they can establish their innocence dismissal probably will follow. Pope pointed out that only about "one-tenth of one per cent" of the men or of the cruise were involved and recalled that "one or two" were dismissed after last year's trip.

"On every cruise there are usually six or eight men who get into trou-

Biggest Land-Sea Plane Gets Test

The world's largest amphibian plane was "stretching its wings" when the picture above was taken. It's the first successful test flight of the huge 40-passenger Sikorsky S-40, shown just before it rose from the waters of Long Island Sound. Below are Igor L. Sikorsky, left, designer of the craft, and Capt. Boris Sergievsky, pilot on the test hop. They're standing beside one of the plane's immense landing wheels. The ship is intended for South American service.

BADGER CO-OPS GOT $1,690,664 IN U. S. LOANS

$251,812 Has Been Repaid, According to Report from Federal Farm Board

Madison (CP)—The Federal Farm board has loaned Wisconsin cooperatives $1,690,664 during the past two years of which $251,812.37 has been repaid, the board said in a report issued today.

The National Cheese Producers federation, of Plymouth, the largest cooperative in the United States marketing cheese, has been assisted financially by the Farm Board in carrying on its marketing program and also in formulating new policies tending toward more efficient operation, the report said. It lost approximately 50 million pounds of cheese last year. Its membership includes 140 cheese factories manufacturing foreign types of cheese (Swiss, Limburger and German brick).
There are approximately 250 cheese factories manufacturing American type of cheese belonging to the federation. The total membership of the federation represents approximately 40,000 producers in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The National Cheese Producers
federation and Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn., are the two regional dairymaking associations that have been recognized by the Farm Board in the central northwest. The Land O' Lakes Creameries acts as the agent for the National Cheese Producers federation in the sale of a part of the production of Wisconsin cheese.

There were in 1929 one hundred and one cheese factories in Shawano county. A group of Shawano farmers who were not entirely satisfied with conditions as they existed met and decided that the time was opportune to consider the establishment of a centralized organization in the county, the report continued.
It was their idea to establish a flexible milk plant at Shawano and to concentrate the remaining cheese factories so that their volume would be sufficient to insure efficient and economical operation. They formed the Consolidated Badger Cooperatives which has worked in close cooperation with the National Cheese Producers federation. Members of the Farm Board staff have assisted with various organizations and financial problems.

In February, 1930, the Farm Board the state department of agriculture and markets called a state-wide conference of farm patrons of the milk condensers, from which resulted the organization of the Pure Milk Producers' association. The Board of the National Cheese Producers federation has been assisted with various organizations and financial problems.

Fourteen had been organized by April, 1931. Organization work is in progress around 23 additional plants. The association hopes to be able to organize around all the 105 condenseries in Wisconsin.

Early in 1930 the farmers in Langlade county became dissatisfied with conditions surrounding the marketing of their milk and organized the Antigo Milk Products Cooperative, the report said. The membership sign-up represents about 65 per cent of the farmers within the eight-mile radius and a production of around 100,000 pounds of milk per day.

The association is affiliated with the Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc.
The Farm Board, through Land O' Lakes, advanced supplemental funds toward the construction of the flexible milk plant.

Several of the cooperative creameries in Wisconsin are members of Land O' Lakes. A representative of the Board has spent considerable time with the creamery leaders in the state, endeavoring to help work out a unified dairy marketing program.

Supplemental loans have been made from the revolving fund to the North Wisconsin Tobacco Pool with headquarters in Madison, to enable the association to carry out its orderly marketing program, the board reported. About 6,500 Wisconsin tobacco growers are members of the pool and have received, as a result of the financial assistance to their association, better prices for their product than otherwise would have been the case. The Board's loans also enabled the association to make greater advances to its members on delivery of their product. The North Wisconsin Tobacco Pool was one of the early non-profit marketing associations in Wisconsin and has a record of nine years of successful operation.

Wisconsin fruit and vegetable growers have a special interest in the National Fruit and Vegetable Exchange, Inc., which the Farm Board is helping fruit and vegetable cooperatives to establish as a central marketing agency for these products.

Director Of Church Body Is Elected

DORETTA ZIMMERMAN was elected Devotional Life Commission director for Baptist Young People's union in place of John Spence, who will not return this fall, at the meeting of the cabinet of the Union Friday night at First Baptist church. All directors chose their group at this time. Philip Johnson is Service commission director; Clarence Miller is Stewardship director, and Evelyn Stillman is director of the Fellowship commission.

Officers of the Union for this year are Harold Eads, president; Gerald Stillman, vice president; Doretta Zimmerman, secretary; and Donald Peterson, treasurer. The Rev. Ernest Hasselblad is advisor.

The committee in charge of making arrangements for a new "Outlook" staff and the committee for the fall rally at Green Bay Sept. 24 and 25 will give their reports at the meeting of the Union at 6:30 Sunday night at the church. Discussion of a Green Lake Sunday night service will take place.

PARTIES

Several friends and relatives surprised Mrs. Margaret Schwalbach Tuesday evening at her home in honor of her eighty-seventh birthday. Cards and games were played, and a lunch was served. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. F. J. Schwalbach, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwalbach, Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Schroeder and family, Mrs. Hubert Merkel and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Barbian and son, Donald of Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Merget and son Frank of Lake Park; Mr. and Mrs. John Johan and family, Mr. and Mrs. Urban Mehl and son Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stumpf and family, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Merget, Mr. and Mrs. Rube Schmalz, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schwalbach, Mr. and Mrs. John Dietzen, Mrs. Hanna Fischer, Henry Stumps and John Borsche of Darby.

A group of friends surprised Mrs. R. A. Hooyman, 622 S. State-st., Friday evening in honor of her birthday anniversary. Cards were played and prizes were awarded to Miss Josephine De Boeck, Miss Elizabeth Gault, John Gault, and Matt Schilling. Mrs. Hooyman was presented with a gift. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Matt Schilling, Mr. and Mrs. Franz Groh, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Ellenbecker, Miss Catherine Sinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mittenbein, Menasha; Mr. and Mrs. E. Langenberg, Kimberly; Miss Josephine De Boeck, Neenah; and Miss Frances Hoppe, Kaukauna.

Dr. and Mrs. William C. Felton, 522 N. Garfield-st., were surprised by about 40 neighbors Friday evening at their home on honor of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The guests entered as a bride party and staged a mock wedding. Mrs. C. Felton was the bridegroom, Mrs. Charles Hartstrom was the bride, and John Layendecker acted as the preacher. Others who took part were Virginia Gorrow, ring bearer; Patricia Smith, flower girl; Carl Gorrow, father; and Mrs. John Layendecker, mother. Games, cards, and music provided entertainment during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Voigt entertained at dinner and bridge Friday evening at their cottage on Lake Winnebago in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lepper, Fort Thomas, Ky. Covers were laid for 12 guests. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Look, Kaukauna.

The last card party of the series was given by Christian Mothers' society of St. Mary church Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Mrs. P. J. Vaughn won the grand prize at bridge, and Mrs. J. Schreiter won the schafkopf award. Prizes for the day were won at bridge by Mrs. J. Knox and Mrs. Vaughn, and at schafkopf by Mrs. W. Fischer and Tom Hayes. There will be another series beginning next Friday with Mrs. Joseph Ballin and her band in charge.

Miss Alice Perkins, Medina, entertained at a farewell party Thursday night at a cottage at Lake Poygan in honor of George Steffen, Hortonville, who is to leave soon for Florida. The guests were Robert Riggs, Emma Schreiner, Appleton; Miss Clara Nussbaum, Stephenville; and Miss June Grossman, Dale. Dancing provided entertainment.

Mrs. E. H. Brooks, 312 N. Union-st., entertained at a luncheon and bridge Friday afternoon at River-view Country club. Covers were laid for 20 persons. Out of town guests were Mrs. Guy McCollison, Evansville, Ill.; Mrs. Elizabeth Halleck, Cleveland, Ohio; and Mrs. Frank Holbrook, Dayton, Ohio. Both contract and auction bridge were played.

CLUB, CORPS AT PICNIC IN PIERCE PARK

The Sunshine club and Women's Relief corps, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, held a joint meeting and picnic Friday afternoon at Pierce park with about 65 persons in attendance. A short business session took place at which it was decided to continue supplying needy families with milk.

The social hour which followed, was in the nature of a surprise party for Mrs. Fannie Zilisch, who will leave soon to make her home in Waupaca. Mrs. Ella Carver recited a poem which she composed, and presented Mrs. Zilisch with a cake. Mrs. Clara Miller read Eugene Field's "Goodbye, Goodbye, Goodbye." A handkerchief shower was given for Mrs. Zilisch.

Prizes at games were won by Mrs. Fay Drexler, Mrs. Agnes Heberbeck, and Mrs. Louise Roehl. The next meeting of the Sunshine club will be Sept. 21 at the home of Mrs. Amelia Bremer, 326 E. Main-st.

Booper Back

Well, if it isn't Helen Kane, whose baby-talk singing, makes strong men weak, as she returned on the France from a vacation in Europe, all ready to resume her well-known booping and dooping.

Auxiliary Of Legion Plans Park Picnic

A PICNIC supper for members of the American Legion Auxiliary, their husbands, and families will be held Monday evening at Pierce park. Each member is to bring a covered dish, her own sandwiches, and her own silver. A business meeting will take place at 8 o'clock at the park and the supper will follow. Reports on the recent state convention will be given at the meeting.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the affair includes Mrs. Chauncey Grunert, Mrs. Ted Albrecht, and Mrs. Elsie Juse.

Mrs. Lester Slattery, E. Pacific-st., entertained at the T. N. B. club Friday night at her home. Prizes were won by Miss Katherine Mack and Miss Alacoupe Slattery. The Misses Elmyra and Alacoupe Slattery were substitutes. The club will meet in two weeks with Miss Dorothy Vied, New London.

The special golf event for women's day at River-view Country club Monday will be a "blind" hole. A prize will be awarded for the low score on the hole chosen. Forty reservations have already been made at the club. A luncheon will be served at 12:30. Mrs. Roderic Ott, Neenah, and Mrs. William E. Buchanan, Appleton, are in charge of events.

Eagles To Picnic At Erb Park

FINAL plans have been made for the Eagle children's picnic to be held Sunday at Erb park for all Eagles, their families, and friends. The day's festivities will begin with a parade from Eagle hall to the picnic grounds, starting at 12:30 Sunday afternoon. Included in the line of march will be the Eagle drum and bugle corps, the marching club, children carrying flags, and members.

Children will be provided with tickets which will entitle them to free ice cream, candy, and soft drinks. There will be stands of various kinds at the park under the direction of members of the aerle. Music will be provided by an old fashioned orchestra. The public is invited to attend.

MISS THOMAS IS MARRIED TO S. A. KONITZER

The marriage of Miss Florence Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Thomas, 1209 W. Eighth-st., to Simon A. Konitzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Konitzer, 1326 W. Eighth-st. took place at 8 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Mary church. The Rev. J. E. Meagher performed the ceremony. Miss Louise Konitzer was bridesmaid and Harvey Wirth, Kimberly, acted as best man. A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents for about 100 guests, and a wedding dance will take place Saturday night at Green-ville pavilion. Mr. and Mrs. Konitzer will make their temporary home at 1209 W. Eighth-st.

Out of town guests at the wedding include Mr. and Mrs. Otto Tische, Mrs. Rose Bak, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Konitzer, Miss Genevieve Konitzer, C. Walker, Miss Clara Konitzer, Fred Konitzer and Miss Charlotte Helze, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lindroth, Shawano; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Konitzer, Oconto Falls; Mrs. James Rome, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pekkin, Green Bay; Mrs. James Carkey and Mrs. Paul Gustus, Kimberly.

Berlin-Folke who cannot afford a car may be able to get around in a sturmvoegel. F. Koch has built a little airplane which he calls the storm bird for $200. It has a wing spread of 53 feet, is powered with a 15 horsepower motor and can make 41 miles an hour. A working model aviation organization supplied the motor and will use the plane.

During 1930, Wisconsin slaughtered a total of 3543 retired horses for animal food.

NEW YORK WOMAN WILL KEEP HOUSE WITH 2,200 ROOMS

Nora Foley, Housekeeper of Waldorf Astoria, Admits She's Excited

BY MARION HALE
New York.—Nora Foley, as her eyes, her smile, and her name suggest, is Irish born.

But at the age of 15, she left the Emerald Isle to sail for the Isle of Manhattan, where, she had been informed, Opportunity waited to crown achievement.

In her unique case, it did. Nora Foley now has a big time job at which she makes good in a big way. From behind a huge mahogany desk, with two secretaries at French phones who submit countless reports to her, she is all ready to take over the job of housekeeper at the new Waldorf Astoria Hotel, when it opens in October.

Any woman worrying about an ordinary sized home or apartment should listen to Miss Foley's responsibility. She has charge of 2200 rooms, 25 housekeepers, 225 maids, in addition to linen room employees, housemen, upholsterers and cleaning persons.

Her Household Equipment
In her linen closets already repose some 54,000 sheets and pillow cases, all of Irish linen, in which she takes special pride, along with 40,000 linen face towels, as many bath towels, 30,000 linen table cloths, 75,000 napkins and 7,000 wool blankets.

She is getting ready to start housekeeping in the grandest manner any hotel housekeeper has ever achieved. No one is more excited about it than Nora Foley herself. It is her life's dream come true. When Nora Foley landed in New York, her eyes of Irish blue looked over the possibilities of earning a living in the new world and, lighted, with unerring common sense, on a hotel as a good spot from which to start. She got herself a job in the linen room of the Majestic Hotel. Settling down to look over the situation, she saw that the job in a hotel for an ambitious woman was that of housekeeper. In exactly two years she was occupying the position of housekeeper in the Old Buckingham Hotel. Later she went to the old Waldorf Astoria, where she stayed until it closed its doors.

"If I didn't like hotels, I wouldn't stay in one for a minute," she said. "But I do. I've been employed in a number, big large ones and small, here and in Florida, and I've enjoyed working in every one. To a person stopping at a hotel it seems impersonal and transient. But behind the scenes, it is full of drama and as exciting as staging a production before an audience each day."

It's Just—Housekeeping
"Hotel housekeeping is just ordinary housekeeping magnified, multiplied and systematized. It is essentially a woman's job. It calls for a woman with an instinct for housemaking as well as executive ability."

"I am just as delighted with all the improvements in the new hotel as if they were in my own home. In the enclosed radiators, the beds on ball-bearing wheels so they move as easily as rubber tired baby carriages. I love the variety of rooms, the chaise lounges, the crisp new curtains, the sumptuous draperies, furniture and color schemes. I have every normal woman's desire to change color scheme and see new ones. Every new feature that facilitates housekeeping means joy to me."

Taught University Course
Miss Foley has just returned from Cornell University, where she was invited to conduct a course in hotel housekeeping at their summer school, the first time such a course had ever been offered, she stated.

"I told them what I had learned," she said. "Then I advised them to really wanted careers in hotels to get any jobs they could, learn the routine and then create jobs for themselves. The qualifications are systems, the ability to handle people, to give and take orders graciously, a real knowledge of how the hotel runs and what the job means and an instinct for service."

With hotels encroaching more on home life, and growing more convenient and adapted to modern life, there are greater opportunities for women in the executive side of hotel management than ever before. Until now there have been more opportunities than applicants, because women have been slow to grasp the big field awaiting them in hotel work. But with college girls preparing themselves for hotel jobs, times are changing."

AUXILIARY OF WAR VETERANS FETES MEMBER

Mrs. Fannie Zilisch, who will move to Waupaca the latter part of this month to make her home, was honored at a farewell party Friday night at the armory given by the Auxiliary to Spanish War Veterans, of which she is a prominent member. Several visitors from Green Bay were present including Mrs. Rose Morris, Mrs. Anna Bismert, Mrs. Lily Coumand, and Mrs. Minnie Hendricks.

Mrs. Zilisch was presented with a gift from the local Auxiliary in recognition of her services during her stay here, and the visiting members also presented her with a gift. She responded with a reading.

Games and community singing provided the entertainment during the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Clara Miller and Mrs. Minnie Bauer. A lunch was served to about 40 persons. The committee in charge included Miss Mabel Ross, chairman; Mrs. Theresa Potezel, Mrs. Edith Grunert, and Mrs. Minnie Davis. The next meeting will be the first Friday in September.

AIR IS SAFER
Washington.—Air travel in the United States is four times safer than it was three years ago, the Actuarial Society of America reports. In 1929 the chance of death on passenger flights was 1 in 17,000. In 1931 it was one in 4,000.

GERMAN TAILORS SPONSOR COLLEGE TO TEACH STYLES

Students Receive Practical Instruction in Fashion Notes

Berlin.—(P)—Not even creative Paris, where queen fashion has her domicile in thousands of millineries and rules an army of dutiful servants, possesses an educational institution for its "petites mainnettes" such as Berlin is proud of having opened as first city in the world.

It is the "Fashion College," an institute in the collegiate manner. The students there receive practical and theoretical instruction and are introduced to many other subjects directly or indirectly connected with fashion.

The latest Paris styles, the many extravaganzas and varieties of fashion will be taught as interestingly as the making of a simple skirt.

The fashion college is under the permanent supervision of the Berlin Tailors' Union upon whose initiative the institute was created.

It is the union's aim to develop an able and qualified supply of experts who are not only excellent dressmakers but individual advisers of their feminine clients as well.

After six semesters the students are required to pass a four day examination qualifying them as "doctors of fashion."

The news of the opening of a fashion college has already resulted in a run on the institute from all parts of Europe. Textile factories have requested it to supply them with collections of their latest designs and colors of cloth.

On the opening day more than a hundred boys and girls matriculated. For the first year the number of students is restricted to 120.

Child Likes To Be Taken On Picnics

BY ANGELO PATRI
This is picnic time and for the children there is not a happier time. To go out of the house and away to the open country and eat under the shade of a tree, maybe close to a brook, is the height of delight to a child.

There was a five acre lot within five minutes walk of a little girl's house. A big hunk of a tree shaded one corner where a big gray rock, lichen and mossed and trimmed with ferns rested. Along the foot of the ferns a slow stream oozed its way among the bracken and sweet fern.

To be allowed to carry her lunch in a little basket and eat it under the bountiful tree was her idea of heaven. And if she could smuggle a book into the basket and read it as she sat high in the old tree, heaven took on that special glory that is its lure and light for old or young.

Simple things please children but they feed them with the sort of food that adds cubits to their stature. You may think that a child is not doing very much when she sits in the boughs of an old butternut tree reading a book but I can tell you that there is magic going on inside that in days to come will show itself in miracles of strength—that inner strength which endures and triumphs over material things.

Perhaps you think it foolish for a boy to lie on his back in a field of daisies and watch the clouds by the hour. Maybe it looks like a waste of time for children to sit breathlessly watching a pair of orioles in the orchard. I can tell you that it is a sound use of the hours of childhood. It bears interest for a lifetime. The sort of interest that grows more solid with the year.

The boy who can cook his own lunch on the camp fire, who can pack his kit and walk to the camping place, catch his fish, cook it and eat it, has within him the germ that will become power and endurance when he needs them most. He will be able to look over the annoyances and inconveniences that make the untrained boy their prey. He will laugh at difficulties that check the helpless boy brought up without the experiences of camping and picnicking.

Any meal eaten in the open is a picnic, of course, but the best kind of picnic is the one that calls for an all-day jaunt into strange and untried places. They may be near, they may be far away, but if they are new, they are pure adventure for the children.

This is not as much bother as you imagine. If you will provide the outfit you can soon train the children to pack the lunch and serve it. They learn to do camp-cooking easily. You would have to provide the meal anyway, and this sort of one is easier than the home-served one.

If you can't get away for a long trip use what you have, the maple tree in the yard, the five acre lot, the porch, but picnic with the children before this summer has gone.

BAT-SHAPED PLANE

IS FOOL-PROOF
London.—Aviation has gone back to the days of prehistoric monsters and has adopted the design of one very, the "Pterodactyl," for the construction of the latest plane in England.

This plane resembles a monster bat. Besides its batshape wings, the craft has landing wheels placed in tandem, and is without a tail.

Power is delivered through a propeller mounted at the rear, at the junction of the two wings. Passengers are carried in a cabin suspended underneath the wings.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
LEO

If August 23rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger period is from 5:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

Unexpectedness will be the keynote for August 23rd. Events are foreseen, which will upset previously formed plans. Difficulties will arise in married life, though this danger threatens women rather than men. Conventions may be forgotten for the moment, and a series of regrets will follow. Not a restful Sunday.

Children born on this August 23rd will be successful in pursuits depending upon energy and force of character. They will be domineering leaders, and will gain their ends through self-assertiveness more than through tact and diplomacy. They will have a love of approbation.

If born on an August 23rd, the Fates have given you one outstanding characteristic—the power of concentration. You will achieve success, not by brilliance, not by luck, but by keeping your will and your efforts steadily focused on one purpose. You do not scatter your thoughts, or your energies. Things are stamped on your memory with such force and accuracy, that you can recall events or facts with invariable accuracy.

You are shy, lonely, and an inarticulate person. With you there is no effort of self-advertising, or no effort to force your personality. You are loath to ask favors from others, and rather than put yourself under an obligation, you often turn down golden opportunities for advancement. You carry this attitude too far, inasmuch as you deny others the privilege of returning some of your own kindnesses.

You under-estimate your own charms, and you go through the world with the fixed idea that others do not wish to know you—friendly advances must be made to you first.

In all your dealings with your fellow beings, you are extremely "white." You are very honest, and too transparent to tell a lie convincingly. There is little jealousy, little resentment and little suspicion in your nature. Falseness in others saddens, but does not embitter you.

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
"VIRGO"

If August 24th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:45 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger hours are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, and from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

Events on August 24th may change conditions of your present life, and play an important part in the shaping of your future. The Fates, however, are guarding your security and happiness. All accustomed routine will be upset or forgotten.

The child born on this August 24th will have a proud, an intelligent and unfatigable nature. It will be a willing worker at its studies, and will exhibit a pronounced talent for some particular line of endeavor. It will have very deep emotions.

Born on August 24th, you have a stubborn, restricted, steady, pragmatic, silent and reliable nature. You do not exhibit any outward enthusiasms, and your personality is unsparkling. You assume a serious attitude toward life, and you do not expect to draw dividends from it without having first made investments. Having a constructive brain, you should be allied to the business world. You are most practical, and are able to make the most of conditions.

You are intellectually arrogant, and are lacking in tact. You are inclined to think that your way of doing things is the only right way, and you are a severe critic of other methods. You are too domineering with subordinates, and thereby often lose their loyalty. It might be said that you are a driver, and not a leader. You are fairly accurate in your judgments, especially as to character analysis.

You should fight against a melancholy tendency, and the giving way to worry and anxiety. You have strong leanings to everything pertaining to the home life and family affairs. If a man, you are a generous provider, and a benevolent ruler within the home. You are too silent, and diffident to be a popular social figure, but you know how to be a good companion with those whom you know and love.

FARM PRICES ADVANCE 1ST TIME IN 10 MONTHS

Madison.—(P)—The index of farm prices in July advanced for the first time in 10 months, according to a report by the Wisconsin and U. S. Departments of Agriculture here. The index moved from 84 in June to 87 in July.

The price of milk moved upward for the first time since October, 1930 reaching $1.01 in July for a two per cent increase. Butterfat prices rose from 24 to 25 cents and farm butter advanced to 24 cents.

Hog prices rose from $5.50 to $6.10 but prices on other livestock were steady or slightly lower. Grain prices fell from 67 to 66 while corn rose one cent. Eggs and chicken prices advanced to bring poultry prices to an 82 level as compared with 80 the previous month.

The index of the prices for the state's leading cash crops—canning peas, tobacco, potatoes, and clover seed—advanced from 115 to 132.

ASK INSURANCE MEN TO MEET IN MADISON

Madison.—(P)—To discuss the proposed uniform insurance policy, H. J. Mortensen, insurance commissioner, today asked managers of companies transacting automobile liability and property damage insurance to meet here Aug. 23.

The managers and Mr. Mortensen will discuss the policy to be purchased by the companies in meeting the requirements of a law enacted this year relating to financial responsibility of drivers of motor vehicles.

Mr. Mortensen said the companies have filed three methods of meeting the requirements of the new law and expressed the opinion that the adoption of a uniform policy will be the logical outcome of the conference.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1931 by NEA Service, Inc.

THERE was no letter from Jack. A little of the joy went out of the evening. Like an effervescent bubble that could shatter only for a little while away.

"Something's happened," she said, and I don't know what it is," Sue told herself. "I know it is." She remembered the movie news reel. She had thought about it all day and wanted to see it again at noon, but her lunch hour had come at a different time than the hour for which the picture events were scheduled. She wondered why the picture had suddenly been forgotten. She who would have flown across the country if Jack called had let a silly old party make her forget that she could see him.

She fairly ran down the steps, through the street, to the theatre, and bought a ticket. The news reel would be shown for an hour, the girl at the ticket window had said. Sue didn't care. Whether she went to the party wasn't important. But what had made her forget? It frightened her. It was almost as though she hadn't been true to Jack. Sue watched the feature presentation and didn't see it at all. Just now and then a low moan balanced on a lacing of true branches, the profile of somebody's face, came across her vision. Then the news reel began. Sue leaned forward.

And suddenly Jack was there again, so close, so real, so compelling that it seemed that he must reach out his arms and draw her to him again. That he must see her when he smiled. Must know that she watched.

She caught her breath and held. Then the news reel had closed. The figure faded away in the distance. Dusk came. A brass band passed by.

Sue rose slowly and went into the street. Whatever charm the party had held for her was gone now. It was lost in the distance, the enveloping that she couldn't shake off. The city seemed strangely alien. She felt that everywhere she moved indifferent loneliness of others touched her. She wished that she could walk and walk, and find Jack somewhere far beyond. Her slippers would be drenched with dew, her dress would be torn, but there would be star mist and peace and love and Jack.

Her breath came quickly. Her breasts rose too rapidly under the sheer silk of her sports dress. An emotion had taken hold of her, overpowering and unrelenting. She threw herself on the bed when she reached home and started to sob, dry, choking sobs that left her exhausted. It was as though something lovingly had passed and left her waiting. When, where, how.... she didn't know.

The clock started to strike in a church down the street. Seven mellow chimes sang their way across the air.

Sue sat up slowly. She was to have been ready at seven o'clock. She dashed into the bathroom, turned the water on in the tub, and pulled off her dress, slippers, stockings, while the water came tumbling. After all, she was just being silly, she lectured herself. Nothing had happened. Nothing! She was emotional, over-excited. And you had to play the game, to laugh, to be gay! She had just turned off the water when there was a knock at her door.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

PLIGHT OF YOUNGER LESS ATTRACTIVE SISTER—A DANGEROUS FRIEND

LONELY WIFE: You haven't much to hope for from your husband. The episode which broke up your life has definitely turned him against you. He's lost interest in you as definitely as you have. And he intends to live out the rest of his life, not forgetting your treachery, not caring to bridge the gap that has widened between you.

Therefore you've got to make up your mind whether the existence you're now leading is preferable or not to the one you led when you were separated from your husband a short time. You prefer that kind of independence? You've had a taste of it so you truly ought to be able to judge for yourself.

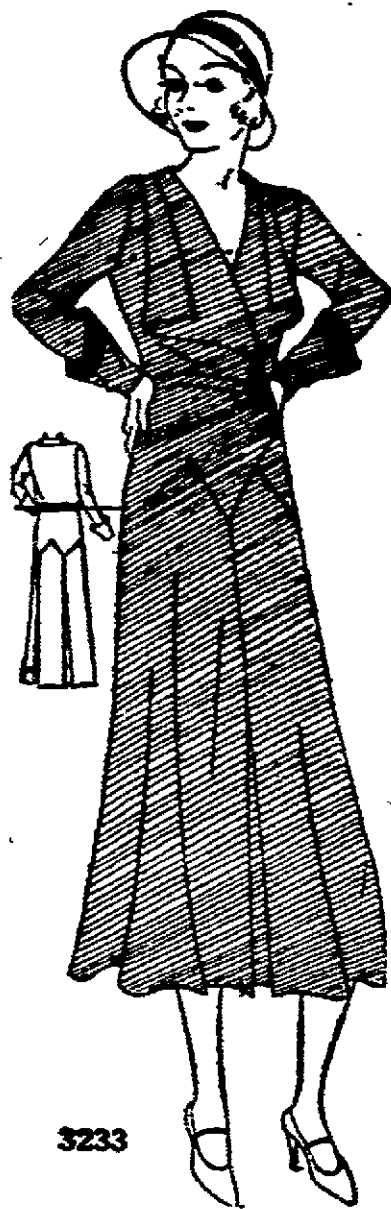

You're young, you can make a go of it in the business world. You can furnish yourself the necessities of life. You can prepare the way so that when your children are older and no longer need you there is still some chance of happiness for you. You can claim a certain amount of support for the children from your husband.

But are you willing to undertake that life again? Frankly it looks to me like the only way out for you. It's up to you to decide however. You have nothing to hope for from the present state of affairs. But you can make a life of your own, if you have the courage and the will to be happy again, in spite of the difficulties that beset your path. Good luck to you if you make the attempt.

JENNIE: Yes, it is tiresome to be the younger, more attractive sister. But don't despair. Sometimes the younger sister in your position has the most fun after all. Right now both you and your sister are very young, and so are the admirers who desert you for her. Boys of eighteen and nineteen are attracted by pretty girls, and you will have hard work to make them aware of your charms while she is so much more dazzling. But don't forget that your pretty sister is being spoiled a bit while you're learning a few valuable lessons. You've got to be good natured and sweet-tempered. She feels no such necessity. One reason why you have so much to complain of in her disposition is that she's always been led to suppose that her good looks sufficed to make friends.

It doesn't occur to either of you that one of these days she'll have to make a permanent hit with one

USE CARE IN CHOOSING LIP AND FACE ROUGE

BY ALICIA HART

The color of make-up used by older women is tremendously important in relation to their hair coloring.

If you have white hair, don't use a rose colored rouge and lipstick. Just go out and buy a nice, vivid, dark red rouge and try it. You'll be surprised how much younger a look it gives you.

Somewhere along the line there is much misunderstanding about the color of rouge to use when you are 40 or over.

Usually rose colored, the ashes of roses type, of rouge and lipstick make the skin look older, less vital and fresh than a distinctly carmine red.

The same is true with fading hair. If you are using henna, then don't try a rose colored rouge at all. Get an orange red that goes with your hair tint. If your tint is black, then try one of the deep, rich reds that have a touch of crimson in them.

In summer time, don't use quite as much of anything in the way of make-up as you do in winter. The thought of too much rouge makes one think of the thought of rich, nourishing creams, does it not? Use lighter creams, lighter touches in applying them, lighter amounts of rouge and powder over them.

It is hard to settle the question of powder shades for older women without seeing them. Or without knowing if they are summering at the seashore or mountains and getting tanned. Or if they are working at home or at business and look bleached and unhealthy. But the best rule for choosing any powder shade anytime is to try it. Stores encourage this. They always have samples so you can make up right there and see yourself for yourself.

Every older woman should use a cream powder base for summer skin. It will keep the pores from rolling off your nose and leaving it shiny. It enables you to apply your make-up much more skillfully.

And every older woman should use one of the new youthifying face tonics. These soft unguents actually spread a kind of charm over a face. They give the illusion of soft, young skin. And in this day and age, the illusion is quite as effective as the real thing.

COURT "CONTEMPT" CAGES BIRD IN JAIL

Baltimore — As justice was being meted out in Southern Police Court, "Dicky," a canary, flew into the window and disrupted the serenity of the room.

Magistrate O'Donnell grabbed for the bird — and missed. Patrolman Brummond grabbed — and missed. Eighteen others in the courtroom grabbed — and missed — until Brummond finally captured the bird.

While the magistrate pounded for silence in court, the canary escaped again. Followed more scrambling around the room until the bird was finally captured again.

"Contempt of court," Magistrate O'Donnell ruled against the bird. "Sentence: a case for an indefinite period."

Just Treat Dangerous Acquaintance Politely

A. C.: You've made a dangerous acquaintance, and luckily for you you've found it out in time. Your new friend has a malicious tongue and can make serious trouble for you if you persist in confiding in her. In this case it isn't wise to go on giving her the benefit of the doubt. The proof that she is doing you harm is much too strong. You can't take chances with your reputation.

A clever woman can start a good deal of very ugly and very plausible gossip if she is bent on making trouble and that would seem to be the main object of the lady whom you have unfortunately treated as a bosom confidante. Just don't give her any material for her stories. Continue to treat her politely but see that she's an outsider in your life. You can't do anything to reform her, so it's best to leave her alone.

G. R.: Thank you for your splendid letter. It is too long to print in full, but I have sent it on to Looey's.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE FORCING SYSTEM DEFINED

THERE are three characteristic features that sharply distinguish the Approach Forcing System in Contract from other systems. They are:

First: The use as first choice of the Approach as a bid in decided preference to notrumps.

Second: The use of the Forcing two bid as a bid in the Opening bid and of Forcing Takeouts for either partner.

Third: The use of the Direct method in preference to the Accidental method in Slam bidding.

THE APPROACH METHOD: When a hand offers a choice between an Opening trump bid and a notrump, the suit (be it even a four-card minor) and not the notrump, should as a rule be bid first. This principle applies with hands containing singleton or well as with those containing unprotected two or three-card suits. This apparently simple principle is of even greater importance in Contract than in Auction and carries with it as a consequence some radical changes in the bidding methods of both partners.

For instance, four-card suits headed as low as an A J 10, A Q or K Q 9 or five-card suits headed by a K or Q J, are bid freely and thus increase tremendously the game-making or game-saving range of hands. The requirements for adequate trump support is in turn made higher than usual: Three small trumps or a Queen small is not considered "adequate" support. Partner should try to deny such support with some other trump or Takeout with notrumps, unless the first suit is rebid.

Another important consequence of the Approach Principle is that the Responding Hand takes out with weaker hands than in other systems.

In the vital question of choice between two biddable suits, the most decided preference is given to the Forcing System to the longer suit.

FORCING BIDS: The principle of Forcing bids, which gave the name to the system in Contract, is nothing but a logical extension of the Approach Principle and other methods already developed for Auction. In Contract where a game or Slam is contracted for in order to score it, there are two situations which require that the bidding be kept unconditionally open by partner.

First Situation: Opening trump bid in the suit Forcing. Such a bid is a gigantic trump outbid and shows about 5 honor-tricks distributed in three suits. Partner's responses are: (1) must not pass; (2) cannot raise the bid suit unless holding at least three trumps to an honor and 1 honor-trick; (3) falling trump support can bid some other five-card suit, if headed by at least a Q J and 1 honor-trick in the hand; (4) holding a blank should bid two notrumps (minimum response); (5) holding 1-

1/2 honor-tricks should bid three notrumps. Should partner himself hold a good hand, he need not jump the bid, since after the very powerful hand shown by the Opening bidder, the bidding must be kept open until a game contract is reached.

Second Situation: Any Jump Takeout in a suit by partner of the Opening bidder is a Forcing bid, provided such a "Jump" is below a game contract. Forcing Takeouts show about 3 honor-tricks (in addition to partner's 2-1/2). Hence, after partner's Forcing Takeout the Opening bidder cannot pass. If unable to support the partner's suit or rebid his own, his minimum response is the required number of notrumps. The extraordinary feature of all Forcing bids is that the bid suit may be of minimum strength, even a good four-card suit, which absolutely prohibits partner from raising on less than three fairly good trumps. The underlying idea of a Forcing Takeout is to find out without risk of partner passing whether he can support a suit, failing which there always remains the notrump (Approach Principle).

Example of the Forcing Takeout:

Opening Hand: 7 5 3 2 10 9 8 7 4 3 2 1

Responding Hand: A J 4 3 2 10 9 8 7 4 3 2 1

Bidding: West, "one diamond"; East, "two spades"; A Forcing bid. West, "two notrumps". A minimum response. East, "three notrumps".

Certain writers use a jump suit Overall of an opponent's bid as a Force. Cannot agree with this. It is the third important characteristic of the Forcing Principle. Instead of using a confusing convention to show Aces and often with an indefinite amount of tricks, we prefer to show definite number of tricks and the belief that Aces will be a rule, automatically inferred from the bidding.

Today's Pointer

A Small Slam should be bid on a hand which offers a slightly better than even chance of making the twelfth trick. When vulnerable somewhat greater risk can be taken, because the reward is greater.

Grand Slams should be bid rarely and only when the hand offers at least a three to one expectancy of fulfillment.

LOAN ASSOCIATIONS HAVE REAL PLAN FOR SAVINGS ACCOUNTS

Funds Are Borrowed by People Interested in Owning Their Own Homes

(Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press)

New York — Not all the members of a building and loan association are borrowers. While the institution is designed primarily to furnish the wage earner and the small salaried man loans for buying or building a home, the funds used come mainly from those who for the present at least are interested solely in accumulating a savings account.

The building and loan has advantages to offer along this line also. In the first place, because as has already been explained in this series, the expense item is low and all the profits accrue to the members pro rata, the value of the shares continuously increases and, under the plan most generally adopted, the return is larger the longer the membership is kept up. If the savings member persists to the time his shares mature his reward is much greater than if he withdraws in the interim. Provision is made for withdrawals at any time, but usually at some sacrifice of interest.

It is unsafe to make any general statement about all building and loan associations, which have widely varying regulations covering these points, and the prospective member should make inquiry locally. All that can be asserted here is that the principal is sound and encourages thrift. There is one other advantage, or at least it is an advantage to most people, that the building and loan association has over the savings bank. That is the requirement of most of these associations that the members make payments on their dues at regular intervals.

It is true that some of these organizations take money in any amount the member wishes to deposit and at any time he wishes to make the deposit but that is not the rule. Under the serial plan, dues are paid at a set date once a month or once a week as the case may be and often there is a fine for delay. In any event, a building and loan member feels under a certain compulsion to systematize his savings and that is a good thing for most of us. Subscriptions to building and loan shares are sometimes made with the idea of borrowing at a later date and sometimes for some other specific purpose, as, for instance, the establishing of a fund for the education of a child.

FIVE PERSONS ARE INJURED IN TWO ACCIDENTS

Mother, Two Children and Nurse Taken to Theda Clark Hospital

Neenah—A defective accelerator is believed to have caused the crash of an automobile on Highway 150, one mile west of the Ridgeway Golf club, at 6:30 Saturday morning in which four persons were injured.

Mrs. D. A. Peterson, Elkhart, Ind., her two children, James and Margaret Ann, and Miss Erna Disselcamp, Appleton, Md., were taken to Theda Clark hospital with injuries received in the accident.

Miss Disselcamp suffered two scalp lacerations, body scratches and bruises, and Mrs. Peterson, received a back injury and body bruises. The Peterson girl was cut and bruised about the legs, and has a possible bone fracture in her right leg. Her brother fractured his collar bone and received body bruises.

The party was returning to their home at Elkhart, Ind. Peterson said the accelerator stuck, sending the car into a ditch at high speed. She said she lost control of the machine after it started lurching forward.

The injured people were brought to the hospital in the city ambulance.

Ferris Kryszak, Menasha, is believed to have escaped serious injury in an automobile accident about 8 o'clock Friday evening.

Kryszak, driving a car owned by Michael Kryszak, also of Menasha, swerved from highway 114 between Waverly and Devlin's Bend, and plunged into the ditch, according to Menasha police. The car was badly damaged, but the driver escaped with minor injuries, police stated.

Edward Dimore, Menasha, and Carl Ulrich, Pulisic, escaped serious injury when their car struck a cow on highway 114 at the Lake Park area at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

The car, swerved from the road and went into a deep ditch beneath a culvert.

Ulrich driver of the car, escaped with a slight cut on the chin, and is in the custody of the sheriff of Calumet-co on a reckless driving charge, according to local authorities.

Dimore's companion, who was taken to Theda Clark hospital for treatment. The cow was killed and the car was nearly demolished, police stated.

LEAGUE HEADS TO PLAN CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

Neenah—Officials of the Young Men's Softball league will meet Saturday evening in the city hall to discuss plans for the league championship series which is due to get underway next week. Dates will be set and rules and regulations adopted. The Stecker-Schmidt and Draheim teams will clash in the series.

PLAY THREE GAMES IN YOUNG MEN'S LEAGUE

Neenah—Three games were played Friday evening in the Young Men's Softball league at various diamonds in the city. The Kimberly-Clark Corporation won the first game, 7 to 2, and the Naxon Feds were humiliated by the Kuehl Grocers, 29 to 5. The Island Specials were defeated by the Naxon Feds 11 to 1.

BERGSTROM CO. NINE TRIMS CITY OFFICIALS

Neenah—The city hall nine, playing in the Senior Softball league, was humbled Friday evening in a slow, listless game by the Bergstrom Paper Co. team, 21 to 5, on the Loudon No. 3 diamond. The Fourth Ward aggregation trimmed the Danke nine on Green No. 2 of Columbia park, and the Kimberly-Clark Corporation crew trounced the Hardwood Products team on the Green No. 1 diamond of the park.

Win Majority of Honors in Playground Event at Riverside Park

Neenah—Tallying points in almost every event, the Misses Betty and Marion Block won most of the honors in the track meet conducted for girls of the various playgrounds Friday at Riverside park. Miss Grace Breitkreiter, girls' playground director, was in charge of the event.

Miss Betty Block won most honors in the midget girls' events and Marion Block copped the honors in the junior class, consisting of girls between 12 and 16 years of age. The midget division is composed of girls 12 years and under.

First places in the 50 and 100 yard dashes and standing broad jump went to Miss Betty Block. She also took second place in the baseball throw for distance. Miss Marion Block won first place in the 50 and 100-yard dashes and standing broad jump. She took second place in the baseball batting contest, and third place in the baseball throwing event.

Miss Betty Dowling won second place in the 50-yard dash for midget girls, and B. Fostering took third. Betty Dowling won second place in the 100-yard dash for midget girls and third place went to a Gaertner. Miss Gaertner also won second place in the standing broad jump, and Miss Dowling won third.

Miss Dorothy Wiberg copped first place in the baseball throw for midget girls, and Miss Dowling took third place. Miss Rose W. Dowling won first place in the baseball batting contest; Miss Margaret Borenson, second, and Miss Pauline Gaertner, third.

In the junior division, Miss Dorothy Koerwitz won first place in the baseball throw for distance and the baseball batting contests. Second honors in the ball throwing event went to Miss Betty Hawkinson, and third place to Miss Block. Betty Hawkinson also won third place in the ball batting contest for junior girls.

Miss Jeanette Miller won first place in the golf tournament for girls. Miss Jeanette Torsrud was runner up.

The track meet yesterday marked the end of playground activities for this season.

NEENAH SOCIETY

Neenah—Royal Neighbors lodge will entertain an all-day picnic at Riverside park on Sunday, Aug. 30. Invitations have been extended by the society to 50 groups throughout the state to send delegations to the outing.

The picnic is to be in the form of a "booster outing" and activities will start at 10 o'clock in the morning, continuing until late in the evening. Several prizes will be awarded to the organization are expected to take part in the program.

Thirteen tables were in play at the card party given Thursday afternoon at Eagles hall by the Ladies auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Mrs. Henry Torsrud and Mrs. George Blohm were in charge of arrangements.

Prizes in whist went to Miss Manet Torsrud, Mrs. Elmer Simons and A. W. Wruck; sheephead, Mrs. L. J. Clark, Mrs. Frank Ulrich and Mrs. William Rohloff, and bridge, Mrs. Charles Larsen and Mrs. Raymond Tuttle.

NEENAH MERCHANTS TO PLAY AT LITTLE CHUTE

Neenah—The Neenah Merchants, leaders in Little Fox league competition will journey to Little Chute Sunday afternoon to face their last real test of the season. The down river aggregation led the league until a few weeks ago, but they lost their position at the top of the ladder when John Ciske's crew gave them a slight trimming. The Merchants are now one and one-half games ahead of their nearest rivals, the Chuters.

On Sunday, Aug. 30, the Merchants will journey to DePere, and on the following weekend the DePere aggregation is scheduled to play a return game here. The Merchants will close their season's activities at Green Bay on Sept. 13.

COUNCIL WILL AWARD PAVING CONTRACT

Neenah—Final assessments of benefits and damages against property on E. Forest-ave. will be made, and the contract for paving the street between N. Commercial and E. Clark-st. will be awarded at an adjourned meeting of the common council at 7 o'clock next Wednesday evening.

Bids for the job already have been opened by the board of public works, and the council is to act on the board's recommendations at the special session. The Cape Construction Co. submitted the lowest bid.

BUILDING APPEAL IS CARRIED TO BOARD

Neenah—An appeal of James R. Single, 507 Clark-st., is to be considered at a meeting of the board of appeals at 7:30 Tuesday evening, Sept. 1. A. J. Prunski, building inspector, recently refused to issue a permit to Mr. Single for construction of a non-conforming building, a boat house on his lot on Clark-st.

MENASHA SOCIETY OPEN FLOWER SHOW AT MENASHA PARK

Menasha—Menasha Polish Falcon athletic association will continue a series of weekly dancing parties in Falcon hall Sunday evening. A general invitation has been extended.

A social meeting of B. B. S. sorority was held at the home of Mrs. Gary Floyd, Thursday evening. An outing at High cliff will be held Saturday afternoon.

Knights of Columbus met in their lodge rooms Thursday evening. Routine work was done.

Mrs. Eda Duemke entertained her Sunday school class at its annual picnic in the city park Wednesday afternoon. A ball game between a boys' team, the Congregational Cubs and a girls team, the Fifth Ward Coast Guards, was won by the boys, 14 to 6. In the feature contest of the day, a picnic lunch was served, and Mrs. E. Fabrekrug and Miss Helen Oberweiser assisted the hostesses.

Henry J. Lenz post of American Legion will sponsor a dancing party in the city park pavilion Monday evening. The dance is one of a series under legion auspices.

B. B. S. sorority entertained at its annual steak fry at High Cliff Saturday afternoon.

Betty Rebekah Lodge activities, suspended for the past two months, will be resumed at a meeting in Odd Fellows lodge rooms Sept. 4. A 6:30 dinner for members is planned.

A food sale was conducted by ladies of St. Mary's parish in Beech's dry goods store Saturday afternoon. Bargaining began at 2 o'clock.

Masonic lodge activities suspended during the summer, will be resumed late next month, according to local authorities. The first meeting of John A. Bryan lodge is scheduled for Sept. 23.

Miss Elsie Brezinski, Menasha, and Harry Loehning, Neenah, were married in St. John's parish house at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Rev. W. B. Polakow performed the ceremony with Miss Viola Loehning, sister of the groom, and Clarence Brezinski, brother of the bride, as attendants.

Following the ceremony, a reception for about 30 guests, at the home of Mrs. Frank Roneck, DePere-st. was held. Mr. and Mrs. Loehning will reside on Second-st., Menasha.

LARGE CROWD HEARS SCHOOL BAND CONCERT

Menasha—A large crowd enjoyed the outdoor concert presented by the Menasha high school band in the city triangle Friday evening. Playing under the direction of L. E. Kraut, the high school musicians presented an attractive program of descriptive selections, marches and overtures.

It was the fourth of a series of outdoor band concerts in Menasha, and the second appearance of the Menasha high school band. The St. Mary band will play the fifth concert in the city park next Friday evening and the Menasha high school organization will conclude the series with a concert on the triangle a week later.

POSTOFFICE SQUAD SLATES NEENAH TILT

Menasha—After an eight day lull in activities since their last beating, the Menasha postoffice softball team will invade Columbia park, Neenah, for a tilt with the Neenah City Hall team next Thursday evening.

The city hall team is reputed to be one of the strongest on its own side of the river and certain changes and additions to the postoffice lineup may be made before Thursday. The mail men, who claim that a score in their favor is practically assured, have not been too successful in contests during the past few weeks.

Boston—Mayor Curley has applied for a permit to carry a pistol. "Personal protection" is the only reason he gave.

LEAGUE LEADERS HOST TO MENASHA FALCONS

Menasha—The North Fond du Lac nine, league leaders in Winnebago loop play, will be host to the Menasha Falcons at Fond du Lac Sunday afternoon. "Shavano" Zelenki of the Falcon speed ball hurler, is slated for mound duty, with Kryszak to receive.

Although Manager Zelinski's lineup has undergone a number of drastic changes during the past few weeks, Powell will probably appear at third base, with the hard hitting Cy Shleske at short stop, Johnny Sheleske on second, and Zelinski of first. Nadoyni, who started the season in the hot corner, will again appear in one of the outer gardens while Lewandowski works in the regular position in center field.

MONTHLY CHILD HEALTH CENTER IS NEXT TUESDAY

Examinations to Be Conducted Under Association's Auspices

Neenah—The monthly child health center for the twin cities will be held next Tuesday at Butte des Morts schools, Menasha, under auspices of the Visiting Nurse association. It was announced Thursday by Mrs. C. B. Clark, chairman of the organization's child welfare committee.

Dr. Elizabeth Taylor, staff physician of the bureau of child welfare state board of health, will conduct the center, assisted by staff nurses and members of the association. The usual physical examinations will be accorded to all children of pre-school age. Mothers also are being urged to attend the clinic to consult Dr. Taylor.

"The approaching center offers an ideal opportunity among boys and girls, who will attend school this fall for the first time to enter this important phase of their lives with a perfect bill of health," Mrs. Clark says. "Minor defects discovered at this age are easily corrected in most cases, while if ignored may eventually become serious handicaps."

The hours of the Menasha center will be 9 to 12 o'clock in the morning and 1 to 4:30 in the afternoon.

BANTA SCRUBS LOSE TO REGULARS, 15-14

Menasha—Scoring eight runs in the final inning, after darkness had prevented effective work by the team in the field, the Banta regulars, pennant winners in industrial league play here, stole a game from the Banta scrubs, 15 to 14, at the city park diamond Friday evening.

Cross, hurling for the scrubs, apparently had the ball game in the bag when he took the mound in the final frame with a seven run lead, but darkness spelled his defeat. Melkie, first strong Banta hurler, worked on the slab for the regulars, using the insem ball which has been adopted for state tournament play at Oshkosh next month.

MENASHA MERCHANTS DOWN MARRIED MEN

Menasha—A seventh inning rally gave the Menasha Merchants a 9 to 5 win over the Second ward married men's softball team in the second contest of a seven game series on the Wisconsin Tissue Mills diamond Friday evening.

Although the married men led, 3 to 0, in the third inning, they failed to hold their advantage and the count was knotted at five all in the fifth. Four runs in the final frame gave the Merchants their victory.

Busanowski, Voss, and Resch made up the winning battery, while Kolasinski hurled for the Married Men with Rischel receiving.

LIBRARIANS PREPARE FOR SCHOOL OPENING

Menasha—Preparations for the opening of public and parochial schools in Menasha and Oshkosh, several parochial school representatives already have prepared lists of books to be used during the coming year, and similar preparations by public school instructors will be taken soon, it is expected.

The usual changes in library schedule for the benefit of students will be made early next month, and the weekly story hours, continued in the children's room by Miss Joan McGillan, will be resumed shortly.

CHILDREN HEAR TALK BY LEGION OFFICER

Menasha—A safety talk by Waldo Friedland, an officer of Henry J. Lenz post of American Legion, was to have given at the Kiwanis Saturday club meeting in the Brin Theatre, Saturday afternoon. The meetings, staged to teach safety first principles to Menasha youngsters, are held each Saturday afternoon.

WHOOPIING COUGH IS REPORTED IN MENASHA

Menasha—A few scattered cases of whooping cough were reported in Menasha during the past week, but represent the only contagion in the city, according to Dr. W. P. McGrath, city physician. For several weeks prior to the reports of whooping cough, the city had been free of both mild and serious contagion, and general health conditions are good.

EPISCOPAL BOY SCOUTS TO RESUME ACTIVITIES

Menasha—Troop 2, St. Thomas Episcopal boy scouts, will resume regular activities Sept. 8, troop authorities expect. The St. Thomas troop, which includes a number of high ranking scouts, will continue to work under the direction of Don Ruch, scout master. Regular meetings were suspended during the summer.

WORK PROGRESSES ON OAK-ST IMPROVEMENT

Menasha—Work on the new concrete sidewalk on Oak-st. will be completed within a few days, according to Frank Kassel, contractor. Construction of the sidewalk is part of the general improvement of the thoroughfare which will include widening of the street and installation of a new sanitary sewer.

YOUNGSTERS PRESENT PROGRAM AT THEATRE

Menasha—Eileen Atkins, Neenah, presenting an acrobatic dance, was awarded first prize in the amateur entertainment presented by the twin city youngsters at the Brin Theatre Friday evening. Hildegard Sennsrenner, Menasha, playing a piano and mouth organ simultaneously, was given second prize. Six other youngsters presented.

FARMER ARRAIGNED ON FISHING CHARGE

Menasha—Joseph Larson, a farmer living near Menasha, was arraigned in municipal court before Judge S. Spengler at Oshkosh Friday on a charge of still net fishing in Lake Winnebago. The preliminary examination was set for Aug. 25, and Larson was committed to the county jail in default of $500 bond.

Albert F. Dunham, conservation warden who signed the complaint, stated that he, Isaac Boomer, and A. C. Chase, took the defendant into custody near the North Shore Country club about 10 o'clock Thursday morning. A net, several hundred feet long, containing a catch of fish, was discovered, the warden alleged.

PLAYGROUND TEAMS TO PLAY FOR WARD TITLE

Menasha—Three games, with the championship of the Second ward at stake, will be played by the Menasha Merchants and Dornbrook Builders on the Third-st diamond Sunday. A single game in the morning and a twin bill in the afternoon is planned.

The championship was claimed by the Merchants after defeating the Loops in four out of seven tilts, but has since been challenged by the Builders. The regular Merchant battery, Voss and Resch, is expected to perform in the opener.

FOX VALLEY SOFTBALL SEASON NEARS CLOSE

Menasha—The Gear Dairy softball team, slated to meet the New London aggregation at Menasha Sunday morning, will appear in three contests before the close of Fox river valley softball league competition.

Following the New London tilt, the Menasha entry will be host to the Oshkosh team on Sunday, and will invade Oshkosh for a final battle with the league leaders Sept. 5. The Gears are now in third position in loop standings.

MENASHA EAGLES FACE TWO GAMES ON SUNDAY

Menasha—A double header between the Menasha Eagles and the De Pere entry in Little Fox baseball league is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the Menasha ball park. Maciejewski probably will appear on the slab for Menasha in the opening game, with Becker is the likely choice for work in the second contest. The Eagles still are in the league cellar with only two loop wins during the season.

APPLETON WOMAN MAY DIRECT GIRLS' TROOP

Menasha—Mrs. M. G. Clark, Appleton, may direct Menasha camp girls activities during the coming year, according to local authorities. The Menasha troop, which met regularly under the direction of Miss Mae Belle Gear last year, is expected to resume activities shortly after the reopening of school activities in September. Regular troop sessions were suspended during the summer.

SHELL SOFTBALLERS TO MEET POSTOFFICE SQUAD

Menasha—The Shell Oils, independent softball team, have accepted a game with the Menasha postoffice aggregation for Monday evening. Points will appear on the mound for the postoffice squad, with Walbrun receiving. The Shell Oil battery will probably be Rischel and Gartzke.

LOOPS DEFEAT SECOND WARD BOOSTERS, 19-6

Menasha—The Second Ward Boosters, a recently organized softball aggregation, were swamped by the Loop Merchants, 19 to 6, on the Greens diamond Friday evening. The loops had little difficulty in maintaining a comfortable lead, scoring in nearly every inning. The winning pitcher was Romsek.

CHARGE MAN DROVE 75 MILES AN HOUR IN CITY

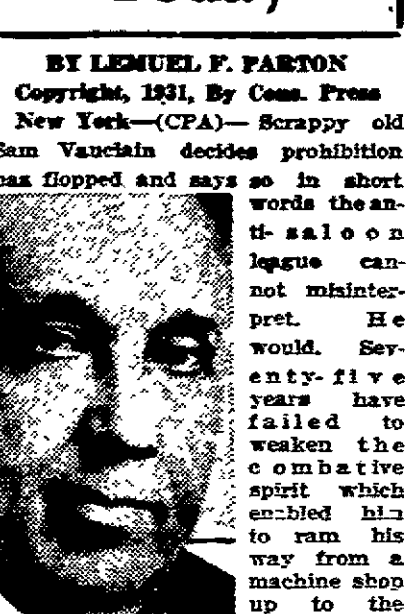

Neenah—A. D. Unihorn, Oshkosh, was arrested at 12:30 Saturday morning by Neenah police, charged with driving his car 75 miles an hour on S. Commercial-st. He is to be arraigned in justice court at 9 o'clock next Wednesday morning.

CLAY PIGEON SHOOT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Neenah—Fifty men from Neenah, Menasha and Appleton are expected to participate in the clay pigeon shoot at the Lakeside park traps at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The shoot is being staged under auspices of the Twin City Sportsmen's club. A practice shoot was held Thursday evening.

Russia has the largest canal in the world starting at Leningrad. It reaches the frontier of China, and has a total length of nearly 4500 miles.

MERGER RARITY DURING SLUMP NOT SURPRISING

Stocks Are Not Easy to Sell Now, and Officials Cling to Jobs

BY CARLTON A. SHIVELY (Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press) Wall Street, New York.—(C.P.A.)—Company mergers in this country in recent years reached their height while prosperity and, above all, the stock market were in full swing. Economic justification for mergers is more efficient operation through elimination of duplicated facilities, greater integration, diversity of products in many cases, greater financial power through the control of larger resources and a saving of wages and salaries. It would be supposed that hard times would give merger movements considerable impetus, but their comparative rarity during the past year or two and their numbers in 1927-28 is not difficult to explain.

Some mergers of industrial manufacturing and mercantile concerns come through the ambitions of the executive heads. It is safe to say that, in most cases, the financial motive was the principal one in the prosperity mergers. Companies were merged right and left without much regard to economics, management or anything else beyond the appeal which the very mention of the word made to the stock market.

Bankers and others promoting mergers found it no great task to add together fully capitalized assets of one dollar for one company and another dollar for a second and then obtain a third dollar through sale of stock to the public backed by what it was predicted the large concern would do.

In addition to the most invariable increase in capitalization without corresponding increase in assets and earning power, the mergers all too often involved huge bonuses given to important shareholders for their consent, heavy fees to bankers for arranging terms and floating new stock issues, and generous salaries to the executives who lost their jobs.

No recent mergers have involved salaries to the public of additional securities, and none is likely to for a while. One of the other deterrents to merger impulse is the understandable desire of executives to cling to their jobs. Thus the lack of incentive on the part of bankers and other financial interests to promote mergers and the opposition to them by the managers of a company are keeping in operation a market combination with others.

As the period of low earnings continues, Wall Street believes that merger resistance will be broken down.

Resistance Breaking Already it is growing weak in the oil industry, where conditions are about as bad as they can grow. The outstanding merger in the oil industry this year was that of the Standard Oil Co. of New York and the Vacuum Oil Co., two of the original Standard Oil units in a billion dollar organization.

Another merger, which will involve assets nearly as large, is now under negotiation. The Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corp. and the California Pipe Line (former Standard Oil units), Rio Grande Oil and Tidewater Associated Oil are considering the exchange of their shares into a new holding company to be known as Commonwealth Petroleum. Sinclair is the outgrowth of numerous mergers. Tidewater Associated is the holding company formed in 1928 to unite the assets of Oil Co. largely a standard oil unit of New York concern, and the Associated Oil Co. of California.

These negotiations, it is understood, are being delayed partly because of the question of executive jobs, but a merger of at least all but one of the companies concerned is a virtual certainty. Wall Street is ready to bet that the merger will be the next big one—merger—a reunion of Standard Oil of New Jersey with Standard Oil of California, with a possibility of including Standard Oil of Indiana as well.

Talk of a union of Jersey with California was begun two years ago but was dropped until the Standard of New York-Vacuum Oil deal was sealed.

Withdrawal of government opposition to that union has strengthened hopes of the second merger, although it is admitted that, in view of Standard of New Jersey's position as the original oil trust backed by the government in 1911, the government might see some importance in the action. Jersey and California are not competitors and their facilities would be well joined. The case may throw interesting light on how far the country is willing to go in overhauling the anti-trust laws enacted some forty years ago.

HE'LL LEARN SOME TIME The country doctor stopped to wait a morning dog in the street, and said to its owner: "How do you train it? I can't teach my dog a single trick."

The owner, with an innocent face, replied: "Well, it's easy enough. All you have to do is round him up like the dog, and—TIT-BITS.

THE REMINDER

A woman ran away from her husband and went to live in a hotel. After several days she went back to him. She said she could not stand looking at the sign on the hotel door every time she went out. It troubled her conscience. The sign was: "Think—have you left anything?"—TIT-BITS.

SET TRAP FOR SELF

3 WAREHOUSE THEFT SUSPECTS AT LARGE

Friends of Manawa Men Believe They Will Appear Before Waupaca Justice

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Manawa, Wis.—Tom Flanagan, 28, William Nicolai, 21, and Ronald Colwell, 20, the three men wanted for questioning in connection with the theft of 10 100-pound bags of sugar from the Borden Co. warehouse in Manawa the night of July 27, are still at large. Although warrants on charge of burglary were issued Monday, August 10, by District Attorney L. D. Smith of Waupaca, no arrests have been made.

The trio has not appeared before any county official, but the district attorney has the assurance from friends of the three men that they will appear at Waupaca, Saturday, before S. W. Johnson, justice of the peace, waive examination, and be bound over to circuit court. In case of a guilty plea is entered, they are expected to go up before Byron B. Park, circuit judge, at Stevens Point, Monday.

The case is a peculiar one. When suspicion rested upon Flanagan, Nicolai, and Colwell, Mrs. Charles Nicolai, mother of one of the three, was questioned and implicated all three of them in the crime. She promised to bring them before the district attorney, Monday, August 10. When she failed to do so, warrants were issued, but no one of the trio was arrested and they apparently disappeared from this locality. Friends, however, insist, that they will appear on Saturday.

WORK STARTED ON SECOND OVERHEAD IN CALUMET COUNTY

Project Will Join Highways 10 and 57 and Eliminate Dangerous Crossing

Chilton—Work on the second overhead in the county, designed to relieve the unemployment situation, was started this week. The first one is located on Highway 31 between this city and Hayton, while the second one is located a quarter of a mile west of Forest Junction. The contractors are Peppard and Fulton of Superior, and it is estimated that the work will be completed in some time less than three months. This overhead will carry the relocation of Highway 10 and 57, which will merge at the Alfred Ott corner over the Chicago and North Western tracks. The work has been delayed on account of the difficulty encountered by the county highway commission in securing the necessary lands, as much question has been raised as to the value of the lands. The overhead is a state project, but the county is obliged to secure the necessary land. One of the tracts of land in question is an eight acre grade of the Appleton District Road Meeting association. The grade of the overhead will close the present entrance to the grounds, and as the annual camp meeting is scheduled to take place Aug. 21, much anxiety is being felt by the stockholders due to the fact that the construction work will be in progress at that time. The highway committee will provide another entrance to the grounds.

Closing Of Depot Causes Retirement Of Pioneer

Special to Post-Crescent
Manawa—When the Green Bay & Western railroad closed its depot at Royaltown this week, after continuously operating the station for 53 years, it also caused the retirement of Cyrus Fletcher, one of the veteran railroad men of the state, who has been agent at Royaltown for 38 years. Mr. Fletcher recently celebrated his sixtieth birthday.

He started in the railroad business with the Chicago and Northwestern line, then transferred to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, and took charge of the Green Bay and Western station at Royaltown in 1891. After 25 years as agent there he retired for two years, but took up the duties again 13 years ago. He takes the closing of the depot in a philosophical manner. "Sure, I knew it was coming," he remarked. "I told some of the business men around town that if the trucks instead of the railroad continued to hold their goods, there'd be a closed station in Royaltown—and here it is."

"As far as that goes, the closing of the Royaltown station is only a starter. I believe if motor trucks and motor cars keep cutting in on business that rightfully and naturally belongs to the railroads, there'll be more stations closed and they'll be located in bigger towns than Royaltown."

"I've got a little farm not very far from the depot and I imagine that where I'll spend a lot of my time from now on. At least, I can watch the trains pull through and maybe wave at the conductors and engineers I've been greeting every day for the last quarter of a century. Wonder if Number 2 is on time this afternoon?"

Royaltown is a village of 350 population. At the time Green Bay and Western officials closed the depot at that place they also closed the station at Dodge on the western end of the line.

Kaukauna—Three of the matches to determine semi-finalists in play for the president's trophy at the Kaukauna golf club have been played off, and as a result the three successful competitors will play Sunday with the winner of the Stanley Stadel-Arnay-Borgoren match in semi-final play. The three successful candidates are Fred Olin, winner of the 1930 president trophy, Gene Ditter, and C. J. Hansen.

The semi-final matches will be played at the local course Sunday with Fred Olin meeting C. J. Hansen, and Gene Ditter meeting the winner of the Stanley-Borgoren match. The winners of these two matches will meet in a 36 hole final play at the local course Sunday, Aug. 30, to determine the president's trophy winner for 1931.

In connection with the semi-finals Sunday a blind bogey tourney for other members of the club will be held. Two prizes are being offered to the winners of the tourney, an electric windshield heater by Hugo Lemke Auto Co., and a carton of cigars by the M. L. Hass grocery.

Kaukauna—With ten games to play in the city softball league, the schedule will be played out next week. By all indications Mereness Transfers and the North Side Merchants will tangle for the city championship, at the Transfers are well in the lead this half. The first half of the season was won by the North Side Merchants.

A series will be played following completion of the schedule by the two teams for the city championship. The series will be especially interesting as the Merchants have never defeated the Transfers in any of the meetings of the teams during the season.

In Friday's games the Pulpmakers forfeited to the Transfers, 9 to 0, when they failed to show at St. Mary's school diamond in time to start the game. Nitlingales won from the Knights of Columbus at the playgrounds, 10 to 5.

FOREIGN INTRIGUE AND LOVE STORY IN TWELVETREES FILM

Plot Is About Viennese Woman Who Enters Government Employ

Wednesday has been set for the opening date of Helen Twelvrees' new RKO Pathe picture, "A Woman of Experience," at the Appleton Theatre.

The story is about a Viennese woman of uncertain reputation, known as Elsa, who is engaged by the government to get some information from an officer, Von Lichstein. Her one chance is to pretend to be in love with him. Complications arise when she really falls in love with young Karl Runyi. Realizing that her unfortunate past as well as her present disagreeable duty, make her unfit to be the wife of a man with such high ideals of womanhood, she writes Karl a note, telling him of another love.

In the meantime, she has tried to trap Von Lichstein as he is about to escape. Too quick for her, he seizes the gun she has drawn and shoots her. Karl comes to her when she is ill, still wanting to marry her. His mother tells Elsa she will reveal the story of her past to Karl if she persists in seeing him. But when Elsa replies she has only six months to live, the mother gives her consent to the marriage.

The starring role is utterly different from the other roles Miss Twelvrees has had to portray. "Elsa" is a more complex character than "Millie" or "Frankie" in "The Man" and gives Miss Twelvrees an opportunity to demonstrate her fine histrionic ability.

The producers of "A Woman of Experience" have done their best to give Miss Twelvrees excellent support. The story is taken from the play "The Register" written by John Ford, who wrote the screen version himself. Ralph Murphy wrote the additional dialogue. Harry Joe Brown, associate producer to Charles Rogers, directed the picture. Photography was by Hal Mohr, president of the American Association of Cinematographers. Danny Egan, director.

The members of the cast are William Bakewell, Lew Cody, Zasu Pitts, H. B. Warner, C. Henry Gordon, Franklin Pangborn, Nance O'Neill, George Fawcett, Bertha Mann, William Tooker, Alfred Hickman, Edward Earle, and Max Watzman.

THRILLING WESTERN TO PLAY AT ELITE

"The Conquering Horde" to Introduce New Sound Equipment

The excitement-craving public gets a feast for its thrill-appetite in "The Conquering Horde," Paramount's newest Richard Arlen starring picture at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday.

"The Conquering Horde" is a story of men without law. A story of gripping action. A story of battling against wild Comanches. Of thousands of thundering hooves of brave men and of one brave woman, fighting the perils of the wilderness, the elements and the treacherous outcasts of civilization, who prey upon them.

There is suspense - sustaining drama, thrilling action - and glamorous romance. There is an abundance of whimsical, at times uproarious comedy.

Emerson Hough, the author of "The Covered Wagon," and one of the foremost American writers of historically authentic outdoor stories, spun the original yarn, "North of 36" from which Grover Jones and William Slavens McNutt made the adaptation for the screen.

It is a tale of red-blooded doings in a day of empire-building that is still remembered by oldsters who were there in those hectic times.

It tells of the adventures of a courageous band of Texas ranchers led by a soldierly youth into the unknown of the wilderness, across strange and perilous fastnesses into the final triumph of their ambitions - civilization with its fame and fortune.

As his "first lieutenant" on the daring enterprise the girl who feared to love him because she thought him a traitor, but respected him nevertheless because she knew his courage and his strength.

"The Conquering Horde" heralds the opening of the Elite Theatre, which has been closed the past week to install the latest and improved type of Western Electric Sound System.

NAVARRO IN CHARMING LOVE STORY, 'DAYBREAK'

That love, sooner or later, will catch up with you, is the theme which is woven through the engrossing story of "Daybreak," the new Ramon Novarro Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, at the Elite Theatre next Thursday and Friday.

"Daybreak" deserves all the praise it has been given as a stage play. Novarro and the French director, Jacques Feyder, have indeed enhanced in the talkie the original charm of this sophisticated drama.

Novarro, as the Viennese lieutenant, Will Kasda, is in a role quite different from the Spanish lovers of his two most recent pictures, "In Gay Madrid" and "Call of the Flesh." As the immaculately garbed lieutenant, with a monocle in one eye, Novarro sends one's memories back to "The Student Prince." Kasda, however, is a more modern hero than the "Prince." He is an up-to-date love adventurer with so many conquests that he has come to think of love as merely a game, not at all to be taken seriously.

Beaumont, Texas, is to be headquarters of the first reserve chemical warfare battalion in the state.

Supreme in Emotional Role!

Helen Twelvrees will be seen at the Appleton theatre next week in an RKO Pathe picture, "A Woman of Experience." She is cast in an emotional role as a Viennese woman of uncertain reputation who enters the employ of the government.

MACKAILL GRACEFUL IN BATHING SUIT OR GOWN

Parisian dressmakers say that long skirts demand graceful movements and that many women will learn to walk again if the new fashion has come to stay.

That edict will never apply to Dorothy Mackaill, co-starred with Warner Baxter in "Their Mad Moment," Fox drama which will be shown at the Midway show Saturday, and Sunday only. She is admitted to be an outstanding example of feminine grace on the screen, and is, as everybody knows, at home in either bathing suit or the trailing gowns currently in vogue.

I agree with the statement that long dresses require a more graceful carriage," Miss Mackaill said, during the filming of her latest success.

"But I do not believe that many American women will have to learn to walk anew. The strenuous exercises adopted by modern girls have taken care of that."

ROGERS WEARS DRESS CLOTHES IN PICTURE

Discards Usual Costume and Appears Smartly Tailored

In "Young As You Feel," his latest Fox starring picture, Will Rogers discards the personal habits of a lifetime and appears for the first time on the stage or screen as a well groomed, Bond Street tailored gentleman.

"Young As You Feel," which is the screen version of George Ade's hilarious play, "Father and The Boys" opens at the Fox Theatre, beginning Monday.

Will Rogers as the widowed father of two modern sons, a man who has devoted his life to their interest and wishes them to settle down to business and become happy, contented husbands.

The boys, however, have other ideas. One goes in heavily for society, while the other makes a sport of main. Then Rogers resorts to desperate measures. A revolution takes place in his character, brought about by a chance meeting with a professional entertainer, portrayed by Fifi Dorsay, with whom Rogers made so much hilarity in "They Had To See Paris."

In addition to Fifi Dorsay and Lucien Littlefield, Rogers supporting cast includes Donald Dillaway, Terrence Ray, Rosale Roy, Lucille Browne, and others. Frank Borzage, who directed Rogers in "They Had To See Paris," directed the production.

BIGGERS' STORY IS FILMED FOR SCREEN

An elderly millionaire strangled in his bed in London—a theatrical producer killed in a garden in Nice—an actress shot in an elevator in San Remo—and the killer was one of a party of twelve round-the-world tourists. But which one?

This is the problem that takes a Scotland Yard inspector halfway around the globe, that later makes him a victim of the mysterious murderer, and that finally brings the smiling, brilliant Chinese detective, Charlie Chan, into the case, with exciting results in "Charlie Chan Carries On," Fox offering which comes to the Elite Theatre 3 days starting Monday.

This vivid screen version of Earl Derr Biggers' well known story is said to be one of the most intriguing and unusual films of recent months, with its mystery always convincing and a charming romance running through the plot. Warner Oland, whose portrayals heretofore have always been of villains, reforms in this offering and plays the title role, while John Garrick and Marguerite Churchill have the romantic leads. Warren Hymer and Marjorie White supply most of the laughs as the Chicago gangster and his wife. Hamilton MacFadden directed.

Director Says Children Bring Parents To Movies

BY JESSIE HENDERSON

(Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press) Hollywood — (CPA) — "Children bring their parents to pictures, and if the children are not attracted to the picture house the family stays home and listens to the radio," said Louis Gasnier, the French director, this afternoon. Gasnier made his first American picture 20 years ago, and still one of the topnotch directors of Hollywood, is busy on pictures for such stars as Oliver Brook, Peggy Shannon, and Marjorie Rambeau.

"The greatest customers of the motion picture are the children from 5 to 14 years of age," he continued, "and because of too much talk in the talkies, the motion picture is in danger of losing its child patrons. It is only pictures with plenty of action and a human interest theme that will sustain complete family interest. And complete family interest, which includes the interest of the children, is the foundation of good theatre business. Children dislike pictures that have too much dialogue."

"You see, the motion picture never can compete with the stage in its particular realm. If the public must listen to continued talking, they would rather listen to people of real flesh and blood than to shadowy images."

"The silent picture never had more than 150 feet of titles to 1,000 feet of action. In the beginning, talkies were 95 per cent talk and 5 per cent action. My own formula calls for a maximum of 40 per cent talk; any more would make the production a photographed play."

"Of course the studios improved enormously with the radio and other astounding inventions. Twenty years ago, a studio was but a big barn. Directing a picture today is like speeding across the country in a smooth-riding train as compared with bouncing across in a covered wagon."

BELIEVE NEW LAW WILL STOP ILLICIT FUR TRADE

Madison—(CP)—The fur dealer's license law enacted by the last legislature is expected to aid materially in eliminating the illicit fur traffic in Wisconsin, the state conservation commission said today.

All purchasers of raw fur must be licensed by the state under the terms of the new law. Licenses are issued for five classes of purchasers with the heaviest fee directed at the itinerant fur buyer.

The law also provides that all packages of raw furs transported in Wisconsin must be marked with the number and kind of furs, the names of the consignor and consignee. Beaver, otter, fisher and marten skins shipped into the state from states or countries having a closed season on those animals must be stamped or tagged by the commission to show the furs are legally held.

Nothing in the new law prohibits persons from buying raw or dressed furs to be made into garments for themselves; the conservation commission said.

MOON of DELIGHT
 by Margaret Bell Houston

Chapter 29
LEDBETTER REMEMBERS

Kirk, riding with Juanita and the marquisa to Bobby Cranshaw's dinner, hoped that the evening would bring a change in Juanita's attitude toward him.

Silly, he thought, that this foolish gossip about the Moon--what was it they called her--the Moon of Delight--could sway her so.

In the alcoholic mirth at Adrian's dinner at Tarpon Point, Kirk's name had been jokingly linked with the Moon. Had Emmy Jean--he had seen Juanita talking with Emmy Jean--had Emmy Jean told her that she was one of the Moon's lovers, and had she been trying to make him confess?

Could it be that Juanita was trying to draw him out about the girl in Divitt's place?

Kirk had thought that night at Tarpon Point, when the Moon was mentioned that Juanita had been lightly jealous of her; and he had enjoyed the belief.

Now he knew that her emotion had been a deeper thing than doubt. It was conviction--some strange conviction--that had swayed and changed her.

She had meant to tell him about this man in Barcelona, had not wanted to tell him, had decided that after all it was not necessary. It was not necessary to confide in him--Kirk--at all, since she did not intend to marry him. Yet she had meant that morning to marry him? Why couldn't she be frank with him?

Kirk did not sit next to Juanita at dinner. On one side was Cerise DuBois and on the other Phyllis Carver. Juanita, of course, sat at Bobby's right. On her left was a vacant chair.

Bobby had been unable to wait dinner on the tardy guest, inasmuch as they were all going to La Petite Theatre afterward.

Naida was staring in something Trigger had written. Trigger would see that the dinner party arrived on time. Naida and Dick were not at the dinner.

No one asked who was the late member of the party. Every one seemed to know. Kirk surmised only vaguely, being occupied with other things--chiefly watching Juanita who sat opposite him and striving to reply coherently to Cerise and Phyllis.

Cerise, fortunately, had something in common with Adrian on her other side, for Adrian too had been robbed on the one of the night he had been in Bilbao. Cerise and Adrian discussed their losses, replying to general questions.

"Did they get the gold punch bowl, Adrian?"

"They did."

"And your mother's pearls?"

"The pearls, too."

Adrian looked wan and troubled. He had been consorting with detectives for two days, during which time he had been busy dealing with his mother's despair.

"Whoop la!" shouted some one. "Here's the big chief!"

Eric Ledbetter had appeared in the door and at Bobby's signal took the chair beside Juanita.

A chorus of welcomes buzzed, a murmured introduction to Juanita, while Phyllis whispered to Kirk, "He couldn't miss Naida in Trigger's play. Bet he just got off the train."

He had. "Got off the train less than an hour ago. Dressed at the St. Charles. Somersaulted here in a taxi. How's that for speed?"

"He's better speed if he meets Dick," murmured Phyllis. Aloud she said, "You look as winsome as if you'd primped a week. When did you wake up enough to somersault?"

"Anticipation," answered Ledbetter. "It's as powerful as emergency. I knew where I was to sit," he added in a lower voice, with a side glance at Juanita. "No," as the hors-d'oeuvre was set before him, "I'll begin where the others are."

His eyes had lingered on Juanita's face. Pretty, yes. More than that, beautiful. Pale, though. New Orleans was probably killing her with parties. Lacked animation, he would say, but he had never objected to repose in women. Langor, indifference intrigued him.

The others, all but Trigger and Kirk, were talking hilariously.

Trigger was nervous, glancing surreptitiously at his watch. Kirk was thinking, "Juanita's in no mood for Eric. I'd wring his neck for two bits."

Ledbetter was pursuing the amenities.

"This your first visit, Miss Flores? And do you like our fair, southern city?"

Juanita's eyes met his. He had seen such eyes in Madrid, in Terrapio, in Tiflis. They always woke him strangely. . . . Her glance was lowered again as she said: "My first visit . . . but it's been a long one. I like New Orleans very much."

Ledbetter had started, his eyes not leaving her face.

"You are from Madrid?" he asked.

Bobby had turned to them and answered for Juanita.

"Seville."

"Oh, Seville," Ledbetter repeated thoughtfully. "Odd, Senorita," as Bobby turned again to the lady on his left, "odd, but just now when you spoke I was certain I had heard your voice before."

Juanita looked down at her plate. "Don't run," Molly had said. "If you meet him, face him."

Molly's words had been with her ever since Ledbetter had come in at the door. She contrived to smile now, playing with the flowers that had been beside her plate. "He was drunk," Molly had said. "He won't remember."

But he did remember.

"Whoever gave you lilacs of the valley and violets doesn't understand you," Ledbetter remarked observing the lace-filled nosegay in her hands. "You should have orchids--black orchids."

"I should hate them," said Juanita. "They don't sound like flowers."

Ledbetter laid down his fork. "Help me," he begged. "Don't you remember me? . . . You've been in Madrid, surely. Perhaps in Istanbul. Look at me. Don't you remember?"

She looked at him.

"One does not forget eyes like yours, Senorita."

"But eyes like yours, Eric," remarked Rod Stevens from across the table, "may not leave so indelible a mark. You only embarrass her."

"Go after him," said Emmy Jean to Rod. "He's been making love to Juanita ever since he sat down. Me on his other side he's hardly said a word to. And I remember him."

Kirk thought, "I believe Juanita knows him. I believe she's met him somewhere."

"It will come to me," said Ledbetter. "Faces I may forget, but voices--It will come to me."

He began to eat his dinner.

Juanita looked at Kirk and away. Kirk's eyes had said, "Do you want to go? Do you want me to take you away?"

What must be think of her, always wanting to escape--from Adrian, from some situation?

She saw the marquisa watching her also, carefully avoiding the wine. Juanita straightened herself, flashed a smile at Kirk. The dinner was nearly over.

Trigger himself marshaled the girls toward the stair, imploring them not to dawdle over their wraps and lipstick. Ledbetter watched Juanita as she went with the rest.

By love, where . . . All in black . . . flowers. He almost had it. Fitz caught his arm, drew him aside.

"Take a tip," said Fitz. "Don't go behind the scenes, after the show." Ledbetter's glance narrowed slightly. "You mean?"

"I mean Dick. He's behaving like the devil. I don't think he knows you're back, and I wish you were."

Ledbetter lit a cigarette.

"That's not all Dick don't know," he said. "Besides, I'm having the crowd around at Antoine's after the show. Naida won't understand if I don't ask her."

"I'm telling you," said Fitz. "Act the fool if you want to."

A robbery tomorrow recalls Fitz warning and cancels Ledbetter's plans for his bewildered guests.

Record Crowd Expected To Watch Fords And Kaws At Kaukauna

Sunday's Games
Kimberly at Green Bay.
Wisconsin Rapids at Shawano.
Appleton at Kaukauna.

W HAT probably will be the biggest baseball feud of the season and really the last interesting game in which Appleton club of the Fox River Valley league will take part, is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at the Kaukauna ball park. Yes, Appleton and the Kaws will furnish the fireworks and indications are there will be plenty.

Kaukauna under the management of the veteran Mary Lamers is perched in first place in league standings, thanks to some stellar pitching by Michaelson and some great tanning of the old horseshoe.

PROTEST DISALLOWED
Green Bay's protest that Michaelson, Kaukauna hurler, uses an emery ball when going gets tough was disallowed by league officers here last night. Two exhibits were ruled out, one because the ball was first thrown into the air, and then to the umpire. The other ball was received by the umpire from Michaelson but was not considered sufficient evidence that it was thrown because it had not been delivered to the batter before being given the umpire. It was admitted, however, that the ball had been marked. Officers point out that had the ball been marked, Michaelson should have been removed from the game for having the ball in his possession, and asked the game be played over because the umpire failed to do so, the protest might have been allowed.

by members of the Kaw club. A win over Appleton will nail the 1931 pennant to the Kaukauna flag pole, whenever John Coppes erects one. The last time Kaukauna lost a ball game in the valley race was when Joe Shields pounded the pit into the railroad tracks out at Brandt park late in June. It was in the eleventh inning, the score was tied and one more was on the path. The wallp furnished a great crowd with a great thrill and all who remember that game will be at Kaukauna to see if something just like it can't happen again.

There's another little argument in the making over this Kaukauna game and over other games in which Michaelson has pitched. Last week at Green Bay the Green Sox confiscated two baseballs which they claim show Michaelson or someone else on the Kaw club, scratches the ball with emery cloth and thereby makes it easier for Michaelson to make the ball do the funniest things imaginable.

Fed Mike New Balls
Appleton was suspicious of the Kaw hurler on his last defeat here and when the game was close in the late innings the Fords tossed out a new ball every time one went over the grand stand or out of play. Michaelson saw more new balls than a cat sees mice, and he was in a long while and even Mary Lamers was beginning to complain about things. But it worked, and Mike, if he roughs the ball never had a chance in the late innings. But be that as it may, the Fords don't furnish the balls at Kaukauna and Mike will use any ball the Kaws toss him—and you can bet they won't all be new ones.

So all in all it looks like a royal afternoon for baseball fans at Kaukauna tomorrow. The Fords should be in there trying to knock off the Kaws on general principles, and doing their best to satisfy the Appleton fans who will attend the game. And of course Kaukauna doesn't feel like taking a trimming at this late stage in the race, least of all from Appleton.

Art Behr will attempt to turn back the Kaukauna clubbers tomorrow and Leo Murphy will be behind the long indicating what he thinks the Electric City gang will miss. Egan is expected at first base, Donegan at second, Weisgerber at short and Joe Shields at third. In the outfield the combination probably will be Bowers, Smith and Sonny Tonn.

Wisconsin Rapids makes its final appearance of the season in Shawano. To date the 1930 champions have stepped on the Indians three games in a row and will probably do it again although it's likely Schneider gets a lot of support, he may use Leo Huber's hirings something to worry about.

Green Bay will be at home Sunday instead of invading Kimberly. Permission to transfer the game was approved by President C. O. Baetz as the turnouts at the Papermakers' village have been below par for the last month.

The Green Sox-Kimberly game will be played as the main feature of a twin bill attraction. The opening half of the "big game" will bring together the Green Bay Erickson and Manitowish O. K. who are hot in the chase for the pennant in the Lake Shore league. The double-header is expected to draw a capacity house.

Roast Chicken Sat. Night, Roy's Corners.

BURLEIGH IN THE DUMPS; BEARD HAS NOT GROWN ENOUGH

Philadelphia (AP)—Burleigh Grimes was suffering today from what his St. Louis Cardinal teammates described as a "Mod on." The weather was to blame.

Burleigh was due to pitch the series opener here Wednesday, and following his usual custom, grew considerable of a beard for the event. Rain prevented the game so Burleigh allowed the beard to grow for another day. When it rained again yesterday Burleigh visited a barber.

Now Burleigh is down to pitch today and it pains him not a little to think his whiskers have only a day's growth. The old spitballer claims a beard keeps the sun out of his eyes and also gives him a psychological advantage of looking "tough" to hostile batters.

Forest Junction took Wrightstown out of third place in the Badger league scramble last Sunday afternoon 9 to 5. The new men in the Wrightstown team appeared to be able to take care of their assigned positions in good shape and will be in the line up against the Greenleaf team Sunday. There will be great interest in Sunday's game at Greenleaf when the Wrightstown boys go up against several of their old team mates who went to the Greenleaf team.

Appleton will go to Forest Junction to try and keep its hold on first place while Hollandtown will entertain Darby on the Hollandtown diamond.

Tustin at New London.
Weyauwega at Shiocton.

Readfield club of the Central Wisconsin league will meet Appleton Merchants here Sunday afternoon at Wilson school field. The Merchants are returning to their home lot for the first time in three weeks, a period during which the team lost three games which dropped it to fourth place, one game out of second and a half game out of third.

Harvey Buss will take the mound tomorrow in an effort to get the club started in the league. The Merchants will be behind the log and Wing and Trambauer will work for the Readfield aggregation.

In other games Tustin will seek a win over the league champions, New London, and Weyauwega will play at Shiocton.

NEW YORK (CFA)—Players of the league team and those of the Athletics in the American now are naturally talking world series.

Last year at this time the athletic players were being rubbed down and carried for the series because they were sure they were going to be in it and get a piece of the public gift money.

The St. Louis players were wondering if they were going to get there about this time in 1930 and they were pretty sure about it. But they hung on. Gaby Street wouldn't even let them read ghost stories at night because he was afraid they might begin seeing things. They are far less apprehensive this year. They will not believe they have the championship won until the race is settled. They actually fear Boston more than they do Chicago—having finished up with New York in the east and won that point. They think they can repel any of the Cubs who attempt to board the Cardinal scow this year.

A's Gone Far Enough
The St. Louis players think they have the better of it if they must play the Athletics again. "I think the Athletics have gone about as far as they can as world series winners," said Burleigh Grimes. "I know they got to me in the last series but they had to hit a home run to do it. Maybe they can hit more

ST. PAUL HOLDS TO GAME LEAD IN A. A. PENNANT SCRAMBLE

Association Clubs Finding Places as Race Enters Last Stage

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Little by little, American Association clubs are locating the spots in which they belong—but it has taken longer than usual.

The ultimate winners in 1929 and 1930 got out in front and remained there and the contests for other places were not exceptionally close. This season, however, it was not until after July 4, that St. Paul definitely established itself at the peak, and only during the past three weeks has Indianapolis been able to get a decent hold on second place.

Kansas City has moved into third position and appears likely to remain there, while Minneapolis and Toledo are more or less definitely established in seventh and eighth places. Milwaukee, Louisville and Columbus all are still candidates for the remaining first division berth.

Saints Have Big Lead
Indianapolis and Kansas City underwent so much reorganization that it required many weeks to form the present combinations. Had they succeeded sooner, St. Paul probably wouldn't have a ten game lead over the field today.

Chet Nichols, obtained in the deal in which outfielder George Davis goes to the Philadelphia Nationals next year, pitched St. Paul to a 6 to 1 victory over Louisville in the opening game of the series. Nichols held the Colonels to four hits, and then a home run by Bill Herman.

Indianapolis pulled that old come-behind trick to take a 10 to 8 decision from Minneapolis. The Indians were down, 5 to 0, going into the fifth, but scored in every inning except the ninth to gain their edge. Francis Sigfoos, Indianapolis second baseman, was the chief gunner, raking Miller pitching for a double and three singles.

Blues With
Kansas City and Columbus battled eleven innings before the Blues were able to accomplish a 2 to 1 victory. The Birds scored in the second inning and the Blues evened it up in the fifth. In the ninth a walk, a sacrifice and a single scored Boken with the winning run. Lefty Gudat for Columbus and Lou Fette, guest at the way and each save eight hits.

Fred Suley and Johnny Cooney put on a pitching duel at Milwaukee, with the former hurling the Brewers to a 3 to 0 decision over Toledo. Each pitcher gave seven hits but the Brewers managed to cluster enough of their blows to get the edge. It was the first appearance of the Brewers in Milwaukee since Frank O'Rourke became manager and 10,000 spectators watched the game.

BETTY CARSTAIRS TO WATCH HARMSWORTH

New York (AP)—Betty Carstairs, famous English speedboat pilot, has arrived for the Harmsworth trophy races at Detroit Sept. 5 to 8 but her role this time will be solely that of a spectator.

Twice beaten in her attempt to win the trophy from Gar Wood of Detroit, Miss Carstairs said rumors that she would compete against Wood and Kaye Don of England in this year's competition were erroneous.

"I do not care to say who the winner will be," she said upon her arrival on the Berengaria. "I am too good a friend of Gar Wood. As for Kaye Don's boat, we know that she's fast. Just what he can do with his boat on the Detroit river remains to be seen. I think it should prove a great race but I do not know whether Don's boat can meet the conditions he will find on the Detroit."

San Francisco—Fidel La Barba, Los Angeles, outpointed Pinto De Sa, Portugal, (10).

Red Granite at Appleton.
Berlin at Omro.
Menasha at N. Fond du Lac.

Noffke Fuel baseball team with a win over Menasha last week to lift its hopes will play the second home game in as many weeks Sunday when Red Granite club, runners up in the Winnebago league race, show at Brandt park.

The invading nine has won 13 games in the current race and lost but four to maintain an average that leaves it just a full game behind North Fond du Lac, league leaders. Hammen will take the mound for Appleton with Webb Schultz, an old White Sox hurler, on the hill for Red Granite.

Other league games will see the Oshkosh Indians and Cardinals staging an intracity feud at Menominee park, Menasha trying to knock off the league leaders at North Fond du Lac and Berlin and Omro clashing in a little local feud of their own.

ALL STARS WALLOP NEW LONDON CLUB

Tommy Ryan's All Star softball team will battle Van's Fords of Kaukauna at Roosevelt tomorrow morning. The game is the third in three days the Stars have played with outside clubs. Gresenz will pitch for the Stars.

Friday evening the team went to New London and played a four inning game which was won by a score of 9 and 2. The Wolf river team decided that 4 innings was enough. The Stars scored enough runs in the first inning to win the contest.

Rule first up in the first inning hit a home run. Refkile followed with a double and ambled home when Mortell hit a homer. Peotter followed with another four ply wallop and then Crane went out. Schroeder did likewise and Rehfeldt followed with another circuit clout.

AUSTIN, TEX., YOUTH WINS STATE NET TITLE

Milwaukee (AP)—The first title of the Badger state open tennis tournament decided when Bobby Kammath, Austin, Texas, defeated Richard Wegler, Milwaukee, for the boys' singles, yesterday, the competition moved toward a close today.

Sterling Williams, Austin, Texas, yesterday eliminated Art Tetling, Milwaukee, 6-2, 6-2, from the junior singles and Hal Surface, Kaukauna, City, beat Harry Jens, Milwaukee, 6-3, 6-3, to oust the last Wisconsin entrants in that bracket.

All Badger players have been eliminated from the men's singles and doubles and the junior doubles. The tournament closes Sunday.

KIMBERLY PLAYS AT GREEN BAY SUNDAY

Contest Changed Because Papermakers Fail to Attract Crowds

Kimberly—When the Green Sox and Manager Poca's Papermakers clash Sunday the game will not be played at Kimberly like the schedule calls for. The game was switched to Green Bay where it seems the fans like baseball better than here. The Green Bay management has given the Papermakers a good guarantee for Sunday's tussle and the Kimberly aggregation whose crowds have not been so hot may benefit.

ACES BEAT DE MOLAY
The De Molay team of Appleton and the Kimberly Aces clashed in a return game Thursday evening at the Wilson high school diamond. The Kimberly aggregation like in the previous game won the game by a 3 to 2 count. The Aces started right out in the first inning and got one run. The De Molays tied the count in the third with a tally. Aces again took the lead in the fifth, only to have the Appleton team tie up the count in the seventh. Kimberly showed over the winning run in the eighth when Huntington stole home for the winning tally. The game was closely contested at all times and Bourassa did the twirling for the Aces and Cahall for the Appleton team.

CLUB BEATS DRAHEIM
The Kimberly club team took the strong Draheim softball team into camp when they clashed on the high school court Friday evening. The score was 11 to 10. The Neenah team started things a going in the first inning when it found Bourassa the Club pitcher for three runs. It again scored a tally in the second but then was held scoreless in the third and the fourth. The Kimberly aggregation came to life in the fourth and started a rally that drove Whitpain the Neenah pitcher from the mound. Madison replaced him. The damage had been done, however, and the Kimberly team had scored 9 runs.

The Neenah team again scored in the fifth while the Club team failed to count. Both teams scored a run in the sixth. In the seventh the Neenah aggregation scored four runs to tie the count. An extra inning was played and the Club team scored the winning tally while it held Neenah scoreless.

Batteries for Kimberly, Bourassa pitching and V. Courchane catching. For Neenah, Whitpain and Madison pitching, Abraham catching.

HELEN MOODY ONLY YANK IN NET MEET

British Stars Defeat Three Americans in Friday's Matches

Forest Hills, N. Y. (AP)—Between Great Britain and her second straight triumph in the women's United States tennis championship stood today the formidable figure of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, six-times holder of the title.

A series of smashing victories in the quarter-finals yesterday gave British stars three of the semi-final round brackets with only Mrs. Moody left to carry on for the United States.

Despite the impressive manner in which Betty Nuthall, the defending champion, Phyllis Mudford and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall swept into the semi-finals, none is accorded better than an outside chance of halting Mrs. Moody's march to her seventh national championship.

Helen Jacobs Loses
Pairings in the round before the final today pitted Mrs. Moody against Miss Mudford and Miss Nuthall against Mrs. Whittingstall.

It was Mrs. Whittingstall who furnished the one big upset of the quarter finals. Flashing a deadly net at attack, the British player put out Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., previously considered a sure semi-finalist, in a brilliant three-set duel, 5-6, 6-3, 8-6.

Mrs. Whittingstall had been overlooked in advance calculations especially as she had been restricted to doubles duty in the recent Wimbledon cup matches. But she was strictly in her game against Miss Jacobs and her victory was well earned.

Mrs. Moody dropped only three games in eliminating Dorothy Welsel of Sacramento, Calif., 6-1, 6-2, and Miss Nuthall had no more trouble with her countrywoman, Mrs. Dorothy C. Shepherd-Barron, 6-2, 6-1. Miss Mudford, however, had a fight on her hands to put out the American No. 1 player, Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Oakland, Calif., 4-6, 6-3, 8-6.

Chicago—Buck Duerett, Gary, Ind., outpointed Joe Dekker, Buffalo, (10).

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

THE "Old Roman" quietly observed his 72nd birthday Aug. 15 at his summer home near Eagle River, Wis.

We mean Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox. He was born in Chicago. He has been associated with baseball as a player, manager and owner for 34 years. The Sox won pennants for him in 1909, 1911, 1916, 1917 and 1919. They captured world series titles in 1906 and 1917. Remember that 1906 team, the "Hillies Wonders?"

Attock, Sullivan, Jones, White, Isbell, Walsh and Rowe were some of the names. Comiskey's career began in 1932 as a first baseman for the St. Louis Browns.

He became manager of the Browns and piloted them to four league championships and two world titles. He later played in Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Paul and in 1909 helped to organize the American League. He's been owner and president of the Sox since then.

Calling the Strikes

New York (CFA)—What's going to happen to the Athletics if Mickey Cochrane keeps on playing the saxophone? He also risks his life by taking to the stage part time in the winter.

The Waner brothers acquired the saxophone habit. Then Paul got the stage habit, drew Lloyd into it and Pittsburgh hasn't won a pennant since Pittsburgh players blame it all on the saxophone.

Zeke Reynolds quit baseball to go to a ranch, taking his saxophone with him, and when he plays all the calves in the corral come down to the bars for their milk.

FLUORS WIN DIAMOND BALL GAME AT WAUSAU

Wausau (AP)—Final play to determine the championship in the Y. M. C. A. state open diamond ball tournament was scheduled here today.

Yesterday, the Mutuals of Wausau defeated Beaver Dam 13 to 0; the Irving Yanks of Wausau beat Appleton 7 to 4; La Crosse beat Wausau 14 to 7; the Oshkosh Fluors won from Superior 16 to 4, and the North Enders of Kaukauna defeated the Oshkosh Fluors, 4 to 3 in 10 innings.

Back of the Boston salarman in order comes Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, Ernie Schatz, Sharkey's proxy, Mucky Walker, who gained a draw with Sharkey in their recent meeting, Primo Camera, the Italian giant, and W. L. Strubling, who formerly ranked as the chief challenger, but who dropped down the list after his unsuccessful bid for the heavyweight title. Tuffy Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia., is number seven and is followed by Joe Beck, of the North Yankston; Paulino Gaudin, the veteran Spaniard, and Steve Harnas, another promising youngster.

Two divisors, the light heavyweight and middleweight, are without recognized titleholders. Maxie Rosenbloom, who recently was voted out of the light heavy title by the N. B. A., however, ranks as number one in his class. Following Rosenbloom in the ratings are: Lou Scopa, Jimmy Satterly, George Manly, Earl Bazo, Billy Jones, Joe Gannon, Al Gannon, Bob Olin and Ace Hudkins.

The first ten middleweights, according to the ratings, are: Harry Smith, Dave Snod, Virco Dundee, Marcel T. J., Tiger Thomas, Ben Job, Lee Harrel, Young Terry, Ignacio Ara and Gonzila Jones.

Rankings in other classes are:

Welterweights—Champion, Young Jack Thompson, followed in order by Young Corbett III, Jimmy McLarnin, Lou Brouillard, Jackie Fields, Baby Joe Gans, Buckey Lawless, Johnny Indrassano, Billy Townsend, Jackie Dardry and Jack Hood.

Junior Welterweights—Champion, Tony Gannon, Jack (Kid) Berg, Manny Quintero, Justo Suarez, Tony Harner, Steve Halaas, Sammy Mandell, Joey Goodman, Ralph Lenny, Mickey Cohen and Tommy Grogan.

Lightweights—Champion, Tony Cannoner, Billy Petrolis, Louis (Kid) Kaplan, Al Singer, Johnny Jackok, Sammy Fuller, Wesley Ramsey, Sammy Dorfman, Ray Miller, Andy Calahan, and Justo Suarez.

Featherweights—Champion, Bat Battsall, Earl Mastro, Freddy Miller, Kid Francis, Eddie Shea, Fidel La Barba, Bushy Graham, Claude Varner, Phil Zwick, and Johnny Cuthbert.

Bantamweights—Champion, Al Brown, Pete Sanstol, Newsboy Brown, Vito Gregario, Archie Bell, Art Giron, Willie Davies, Eugene Hust, Jimmy Thomas, Harry Franco and Emile Fladner.

BABE RUTH CRASHES 600TH HOME RUN AS YANKS BEAT BROWNS

Washington Takes Last Game of Series from Cleveland, 6-3

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
BABE RUTH has made 600 home runs in his major league career.

In the third inning of the Yankees-St. Louis game yesterday he drove one of George Biehnholder's offerings far over the bleacher roof at Sportsman's park. It was his thirty-fifth four bagger of the current season and brought his total for the 18 years of his major league career up to 600, a mark never before attained or even threatened by any other major leaguer.

The Babe reclaimed the pellet from the youngster who found it out in Grand Blvd., giving in exchange $10 reward and a new autographed ball.

The homer started the Yanks off on the winning rally in their 11-7 victory over the Browns. Lou Gehrig duplicated the feat a moment later and before the inning was over the Yanks had five runs and the game safely tucked away.

A few other American league teams tried to duplicate the Yankee swarming feats in yesterday's game. Philadelphia's champion Athletics and the Chicago White Sox hammered out 24 hits between them and although the Sox had a 14-10 edge in the hitting, Philadelphia won 15 to 12. Ten walks by the five Chicago pitchers and three errors paved the way for a 14-10 victory for the Sox to overcome a two to one of the A's "Junior varsity" Roger Cramer and Dix Williams, came through with timely homers.

Washington's batters rammed out a total of 15 hits off Clint Brown and Pete Jablonowski to take the fourth game of the series from Cleveland, 6 to 3, after losing the first three. Washington

FINANCIAL EXPERT SAYS WORST PAST FOR U. S. BUSINESS

Babson Considers Underlying Conditions Sounder Than for Several Years

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Babson Park, Mass. — To build a good house you must first have a solid foundation. Every great period of prosperity in history has started on a drastically deflated business and financial situation such as the present. Witness the boom of 1885-92 following the black depression of 1884-85; the boom of 1898-1900 after the deep gloom of 1893-97; the great wartime prosperity after the hopeless despair of 1913-14; and more recently, the unparalleled recovery from 1922-23 after the thoroughgoing deflation of 1920-21. All of these major business booms were born from the hardships and deflation of the preceding depression. Hence, instead of being discouraged by present conditions we should be glad that the readjustment has already gone so far.

Babsonchart, which has accurately forecast periods of prosperity and depression for the last thirty years, now indicates that the depression is well over half completed. The worst is over. All we need is patience, hard work, and common-sense in business and government to see us safely through to another great period of prosperity. This does not mean that we should have an abrupt and uninterrupted rise in general business, because there are still factors to be readjusted. Europe is by no means out of the woods and this still constitutes a retarding influence. Notwithstanding Europe, however, I look for a slow, irregular, upward trend for domestic business.

Ground-Work Laid
The time to be pessimistic was back in the boom days of 1923-25, but few people knew it then. Today there is every cause for optimism and again few people know it. The best tonic for wavering business spirits is to study the fundamentals which have brought us out of past depressions. Too many are so close to their own affairs that they lack a broad perspective. They project present bad times into the future merely because they see only the surface waves of sentiment, not the strong deep tide of fundamental business influences. The reason I feel better about the business situation than I have for the past two years is that the ground-work for improvement has been well laid for prolonged deflation.

Here is the set of conditions which substantiates this belief. First: Consumption has been running above production for many months, creating a real need for goods. Second: Inventories of finished products have been drawn down to the lowest point in several years. Third: The general price level is now the most attractive to purchasers in twenty years. Thoroughgoing liquidation of commodity prices always precedes the start of a sound business recovery. Fourth: Money is plentiful and rates are the lowest in history. This affords the basis for commercial and financial expansion on a major scale. Fifth: Stock prices are scaled down more in line with real values, although further weak spots may be uncovered and prices will be swayed back and forth by sentiment. Sixth: The underlying trend of the bond market is upward, and rising bond prices are always an early indication of returning prosperity. Seventh and most important of all, we have learned, in the past two years of hardship, how to work, save and produce. We have squeezed much of the inflation out of our personal living. We have come to realize that the spiritual values of integrity, industry, thrift, and service count for something after all. Every great period of prosperity has started on just such foundations.

Show Business Wind
Fundamental situations, as described above, are now prepared for long-term recovery. Regarding the near-by prospects, we are now seeing the confusing and conflicting trends of various business barometers which always characterize the final stages of a depression period. Some industries are definitely improving while others are still in the doldrums. To cast a balance between current favorable and unfavorable trends, let us list the more significant ones. On the unfavorable side we see: General employment still slackening off, and now about thirteen per cent under last year. Steel operations confined to a low rate of capacity. Foreign trade is showing no improvement as yet. Europe is still battling through a maze of economic and political difficulties which will require a long time to conquer. Railroad earnings are running about forty per cent below last year. Producing industries are still showing declining output. Flour production is down fifteen per cent from last year; have been down fourteen per cent; petroleum is down five per cent; lumber is down twenty-nine per cent. Second quarter earnings make generally poor reading although not so bad as many had expected.

On the favorable side we note marked improvement in textiles, the increased activity in shoe and leather manufacture; the decline in number of business failures; expanding sales and production of tires; good rate of activity in meat packing industry; the slowing up in decline of wholesale commodity prices. Others are: the increased loans for business purposes recently reported by member banks indicating some revival of confidence; and the determined efforts of President Hoover to render economic assistance to Germany. The autumn is usually the time for better business, and considering all the factors, good and bad, it looks as though a moderate but, nevertheless, noticeable im-

Business Failures On Decrease, Report Shows

BY ALLARD SMITH
Executive Vice President, The Union Trust Co., Cleveland, O.
So many people are accepting the present depression with an air of helpless resignation that it is rather startling to find that improvement is actually going on in not a few departments. For example, a fair number of corporations have reported increased earnings for the first half of 1931, many more are continuing to pay their dividends and there is a steady decline in the number of business failures.

This does not prove that the depression is over, but that a growing number of firms are adapting themselves to adverse conditions. Aggressive businesses are overhauling their operations and discarding all that is wasteful. Efficiency and old-fashioned economies are coming to the rescue.

To cite one case in point: Sales of a certain large merchandising house declined more than 10 per cent in the first half of 1931, but earnings gained 23 per cent. This result flowed from rigid economies affecting every department, consolidation of warehouses, closer check on inventories and other measures.

Of course, all companies have not been able to accomplish such results. The majority are still finding profits elusive, and dividends difficult to maintain. In the first half of 1931 combined earnings of 325 corporations dropped 45 per cent below the same period of 1930. But for the second quarter of the year 30 per cent of companies reporting profits show a gain over the second quarter of 1930. At the same time out of 427 corporations, of which a check recently was made, it was found that 345 are paying dividends unchanged from their former rate, 37 have omitted dividends, 34 have decreased them and 11 companies increased their dividends.

Another factor indicative of some improvement in underlying conditions is found in the record of business failures for the first seven months of the year compiled by R. G. Dun & Co. Each month this year has shown an improvement over the previous month in the number of commercial failures. In July there were only 1933 commercial insolvencies in the United States compared with 2028 in July, 1930, and with 3316 in January, 1931.

COMPARISON TEST
Company Is First to Sponsor Contest of This Kind in States
More than $20,000 in cash and merchandise prizes will be awarded to the winners of the Kelvinator Comparison Contest, according to H. W. Burritt, vice president in charge of sales of the Kelvinator corporation of Detroit.

"With the announcement of the comparison contest," said Mr. Burritt, "the Kelvinator corporation enjoys the distinction of sponsoring the first nationwide contest that has ever been presented to the public in electric refrigeration history."

"The first prize is $5,000 in cash. The second prize is $1,500, and the next 35 prizes are new Deluxe and Standard Model Kelvinator electric refrigerators of the latest design. There is a total of $21,185 in cash and merchandise prizes, ranging from the first prize of $5,000 in cash to Kelvinators valued at $345 each. The Comparison Contest was designed upon two reasons: First, because of the widespread interest in contests by the public, especially where there is no obligation to buy and the prizes are of such substantial amounts. And second, because we believe it is the most effective way to help the thousands of people in every city who are critically interested in electric refrigeration and who will welcome the opportunity to learn what they should look for and how to judge value when they buy an electric refrigerator."

UTILITIES MAY GUARANTEE JOBS FOR EMPLOYEES

in Reviving Expenditures

BY GEORGE E. DOYING
Copyright, 1931, by Conn. Press
Washington (CNA) — Guaranteed employment as a means of reviving expenditures, and thus helping to restore the economic balance, is likely to be adopted by many public utilities throughout the country, although the industry probably will not be committed to any definite program along this line.

This is the expectation here following a visit to President Hoover this week by Paul S. Clapp of New York, managing director of the National Electric Light Association.

The association director said he had told the president that public utilities will spend about $600,000,000 for new construction this year. Last year they announced that expenditures for new construction would total $800,000,000, while as a matter of fact they reached $915,000,000. The actual amount of work this year will not be so much less than that in 1930 as the figures indicate, as decreased costs of construction at the present time will make a material difference.

A committee appointed at the recent convention of the National Electric Light Association to investigate the practicability of guaranteed employment is expected to make a report soon. It is not anticipated that a program of this kind will be adopted by the association, but there is some likelihood that it will be put into effect by at least several of the larger electric utilities.

The General Electric Co., for its lamp manufacturing department, has guaranteed the present payroll at least 60 per cent of normal employment for a year, the theory being that such a guarantee will restore confidence to the employees and result in an increase of their expenditures, thus renewing the circulation of money.

The general condition of the electric utilities is such that similar action might be taken with the utmost safety, according to Mr. Clapp. He pointed to the 32 per cent increase of domestic consumption of electricity during the first half of this year as compared with a similar period in 1930, and to the 24 per cent increase over the first half of this year as compared with a similar period in 1930, and to the 24 per cent increase over the first half of 1929. Although there was a decrease of 15 per cent this year in industrial consumption, this was much less than the general decline in the manufacturing industry as a whole.

No Decrease
Under these conditions there is no likelihood of any material decrease in employment of the electric utilities, and consequently no substantial reason why they should not guarantee employment. Such a move, it is believed in some quarters here, would be of considerable value to the public utilities as public benefactors, and would do them no harm when congress next December begins to look for ways and means to restore prosperity, or at least to alleviate present conditions.
